Bitterness of Campaign Ends with Desire To Aid For Good of the Nation

Roosevelt's Popular Vote Rises to 24,363,798 with 20,282,049 for Willkie; Returns Slow

CARRYING ON

Typical of the still-in-business notices posted by many English tradesmen whose establishments have been damaged by German bombs is this sign over a pub door in London.

By The Associated Press
A will toward national unity manifested itself yesterday (Wednesday) as the aftermath of the bitter, turbulent campaign which resulted in President Roosevelt's election to serve a tradition-smashing third term as the nation's chief executive.

It was evident in the editorials of newspapers which had strongly supported Wendell L. Willkie, the defeated Republican nominee, in the statements of many of the country's leading men, in the usual exchange of messages between victor and vanquished and in a radio address made by Willkie early in the day.

Mr. Roosevelt, the winner and still "the champ," was in by another sweep of the electoral college. Nine states remained in the Willkie column. The president was credited tentatively with 468 of 531 votes, with the issue settled in all but a few states. The popular vote, with many ballots yet to be added to both sides, was much closer. It stood at 24,363,798 for Roosevelt and 20,282,049 for Willkie.

Popular Plurality Lower
Republican leaders drew much gratification from the fact that the president's popular plurality was running far below his 10,000,000 margin of 1936. In this a number of them, including Senator Charles McNary, the Republican vice presidential nominee, saw portents of a Republican victory in 1944. The statistics indicated that the party's popular vote this year would be the largest in its history.

But the broad geographical sweep of the president's victory carried with it a Democratic gain of a dozen or so seats in the house. Of thirty-five Senate seats at stake, twenty-one Democrats and nine Republicans had been elected, which—against the trend—gave the Republicans a net gain of two. Sixteen Democrats and ten Republicans were elected to gubernatorial posts, with the Democrats ousting four Republicans and the Republicans capturing two seats from Democrats.

Plan Roaring Welcome
The national capital meanwhile was busy preparing a roaring welcome for the president when he returns to town this morning. The Washington Post started the idea with a front-page editorial in the edition announcing his reelection, and it was readily picked up by city officials and others. The District of Columbia national guard was ordered out to participate. Troops will line Pennsylvania avenue from the railroad station to the White House, and some government employees will be given time off to take part.

Roosevelt Plans To Take Up Many Foreign Problems

President Prepares To Leave Hyde Park for Washington

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6. (AP)—President Roosevelt prepared tonight to return to the capital where for four years of a third term he will direct America's destiny.

He had asked for a "vote of confidence" of the electorate. By mid-morning Wendell L. Willkie had offered, and Mr. Roosevelt had accepted, congratulations on his reelection.

On his immediate plans, White House officials said nothing. But they suggested that, with the heat and pressure of the campaign behind him, the president would tackle those problems of rearmament and foreign policy, problems arising from what he had said was "a great storm" that supplied the "true reason" for his seeking a third term.

The chief executive had stayed up until 2:35 this morning tabulating returns, which showed him amassing leads in state upon state. So he slept late, and waited until noon to make his first public appearance since his victory, at the laying of the cornerstone of Hyde Park's new post office.

Ford Company Awarded Contract For 4,000 War Plane Engines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (AP)—The war department awarded the Ford Motor Company today a $122,323,020 order for more than 4,000 war plane engines.

The Ford company, latest of the major automobile manufacturers to swing into mass production for defense, contracted to turn out Pratt & Whitney air-cooled radial engines of from 1,600 to 1,700 horsepower.

The engines were described as the latest version of a type already in wide use on both army and navy planes. Records indicated the order was the largest single contract for airplane engines since the rearmament program was launched.

Anticipating the order, the Ford company already is erecting a new engine-making plant at Detroit. Though the war department disclosed no details, it was believed the first of the motors would be produced by next summer.

Italian Aviators Join Germans in Ferocious Raids; Drop Fire Bombs

Southwest and Northeast Sections of Great Britain also Attacked by Enemy Bombers

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Nov. 7. (Thursday)—Fire-fighters kept on the jump in London early today in the face of an increasingly ferocious attack by Axis bombing planes which began earlier than ever and stretched on overnight into the morning.

Bombers laden with incendiary missiles braved the heavy anti-aircraft barrage to swoop low and loose their deadly cargo. Others soared so high that only the vapor trails of their exhausts were visible in clear patches among the clouds.

Londoners whose ears have become attuned to the sound of German motors said there was an unfamiliar whine in the air today, indicating that waves of Italians were participating.

Reports from many London areas stated the blows were harder and more general than for several nights.

The Axis airmen apparently hoped to pay off in devastation and death for the British raids on the continent from the North Sea to Naples.

Many Leave Shelters
Despite the frenzy of the attack, many Londoners left shelters during the morning hours and went home to bed. This fatalistic trend has been increasing during the week.

One raiding plane dived to 600 feet to machine-gun passengers waiting for a train, but a British Spitfire came right behind and chased the enemy skyward.

Besides London, the bombers attacked southwest and northeast England.

They flew in the quickening November dusk which now has lengthened Britain's nightly blackout to nearly fourteen hours, and the bombs fell swiftly.

For the first two and one-half hours the bombing seemed concentrated in the suburbs. Then the raiders flew particularly low over London itself, one after another throwing dirty flying weather which reduced the crescent moon to a dim, shapeless blob in the sky.

From the sound of the motors, observers said at least some of the law-flying Nazis were fighter-bombers.

Eight Planes Downed
It was officially announced that during the day four German and four British planes were downed. One British pilot was saved.

London's anti-aircraft thundered with unusual intensity as the first bomb explosions were heard. At Southampton, even earlier, public (Continued on Page Two)

New York for FDR By 233,093 Votes

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. (AP)—A Democratic-American Labor Party coalition gave President Roosevelt a state plurality of 233,093 votes and swept every statewide office in Tuesday's election, but Republicans bolstered their control of the state legislature, winning their largest representation in more than a decade.

On the basis of returns from 9,314 of New York state's 9,319 election districts, the president won his home state's forty-seven electoral votes by a popular vote of 3,262,273 to 3,029,180 for Wendell Willkie.

Willkie's upstate plurality of nearly a half-million, considerably under the margin his supporters had expected, was overshadowed by the president's 729,836-vote plurality in New York City.

Roosevelt only Victor For Party in Illinois

President's Margin in 93-763 Votes against 712,606 in 1936

CHICAGO, Nov. 6. (AP)—Although his margin was narrower than in 1932 and 1936, President Roosevelt scored a victory in Illinois against a tide of Republican votes that carried a new governor and United States senator into office and gave the Republicans six more seats in Congress.

The Republicans appeared also to have captured four other major state offices, losing only the office of secretary of state, and on the basis of incomplete and unofficial returns apparently had won control of the state Senate.

With only thirty-nine of the state's 8,378 precincts missing, the president's plurality over Wendell L. Willkie was 93,763 votes.

Roosevelt's plurality in 1932 was 449,548, and four years later he built it up to 712,606.

Returns from 3,980 of 3,989 precincts downstate, where Willkie ran strongly enough to carry 73 of 101 counties, gave the Republican nominee 1,109,715 and Roosevelt 972,907.

The U. S. Senate race was won by Republican C. Wayland Brooks over Senator James M. Slattery.

The vote for Governor Elect Dwight H. Green, forty-three year old Chicago attorney, was the highest ever given a Republican candidate in Illinois.

For the first time in Illinois political history, the gubernatorial and presidential races were not won by candidates of the same party.

Roosevelt's Popular Vote Held Smallest Since the Year of 1916

On the basis of incomplete returns last night, President Roosevelt's popular vote margin of slightly more than 4,000,000 was the smallest since 1916 when Woodrow Wilson skinned through with 591,385 over Charles Evans Hughes.

His top-heavy majority in the electoral college, however, stood at 468 to 63.

Wendell Willkie's popular vote appeared headed toward the largest total ever amassed by a Republican presidential candidate. It was well over 20,000,000 with many precincts to be heard from. Herbert Hoover polled 21,392,190 in 1928, the present Republican record.

For the Democrats, Roosevelt ex-

Republicans Gain 4 Senate Seats; Fail in House

Democrats Gain in Lower Branch with Totals Nearly Complete

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (AP)—Late returns swelled the already safe majority of Democrats in the House of Representatives tonight, but Republicans scored a counterstroke with a net gain of four seats in the Senate.

With all but a handful of contests decided, control of both Houses rested where it has been since 1930 in the House and since 1932 in the Senate—with the Democrats.

Riding the strong tide of votes that sent President Roosevelt to the White House for a third term, the Democrats recouped some of their 1938 House losses and had elected 264 members on the basis of incomplete returns—six more seats than they held in the present Congress and forty-six more than a majority.

G.O.P. Gains in Senate

In the Senate, where a continuance of Democratic control had been generally conceded in advance, Republicans took over four seats formerly held by Democrats and picked up another when Henrik Shipstead, a Farmer-Labor member, won reelection in Minnesota as a Republican.

The Democrats reduced this gain, however, when James M. Tunnell, Sr., defeated Senator John G. Townsend, Jr., in the Delaware incumbent.

Still undecided was a see-saw battle in North Dakota, where former Governor William Langer, Republican, held a narrow lead over William Lemke, an independent, for the Senate seat formerly held by Lynn Frazier.

The returns showed Democrats taking over twenty-three House places formerly occupied by Republicans, while the Republicans captured fifteen seats which had been held by Democrats, giving the Democrats a net gain of eight in the turnover. A Progressive displaced a Republican in Wisconsin.

A Langer victory in the North Dakota race would give the Republicans twenty-eight members in the new Senate compared with twenty-four at the present time.

Minton Loses Seat

Only Democratic incumbents to lose their Senate seats were Sherman Minton, Indiana Democrat and ardent Roosevelt supporter, who lost to Raymond E. Willis, and James M. Slattery, who was beaten by C. Wayland Brooks in a contest for the unexpected term of the late Senator Lewis, Illinois Democrat. Slattery had been serving by appointment.

Cromwell Loses To Sen. Barbour

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 6. (AP)—New Jersey belatedly got on the Roosevelt bandwagon and sent Democrat Charles Edison to the governor's chair in Tuesday's record state voting with a potent upsurge of Democratic majorities hailed by Frank Hague, state Democratic leader, as proof New Jersey has "implicit faith in the future of America."

The electorate plumped down a ten to four Republican majority of its delegation in the House of Representatives, one less than in 1938, swept W. Warren Barbour, Republican, back into office for his first full term as U. S. Senator, and retained GOP majorities in both houses of the state legislature.

President Roosevelt held 1,013-147 votes to 946,340 for Wendell L. Willkie in unofficial returns of all but seventeen of 3,831 New Jersey election districts. Barbour won hands down over James H. R. Cromwell, wealthy sportsman and former U. S. minister to Canada, with the heaviest margin rolled up in statewide balloting, 1,025,008 to 818,634 in the same number of districts.

Edison, who resigned as secretary of the navy to seek the governorship, led State Senator Robert C. Hendrickson of Gloucester, Republican, 875,180 to 815,102.

Secretary Says Roosevelt Policies Were Approved Tuesday

By J. C. STARK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (AP)—Expanded plans for aiding Great Britain appeared to be in the making tonight as Secretary of State Hull called for post-election unity in carrying forward the "principles and practical measures" of President Roosevelt's foreign policies.

These, Hull said in a formal statement, gained "nation-wide approval" in yesterday's election and "our nation can now go forward with the fullest measure of practical teamwork by the government and the people in the firm continuance of those foreign policies."

What specific steps were planned to reinforce British resistance to the Axis powers were uncertain. Increasing attention was given here, however, to the question of British sea power as a result of intensified Axis submarine activities in the Atlantic and threats in the Mediterranean area.

Final Returns in Pennsylvania Place Roosevelt 283,846 Ahead

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6. (AP)—President Roosevelt led Wendell L. Willkie by 283,846 votes in Pennsylvania tonight as complete unofficial returns from all of the state's 8,118 precincts confirmed sweeping Democratic victories in Tuesday's election.

The final count was: Roosevelt (D) 2,168,693; Willkie (R) 1,884,847.

Back into office with him the president carried U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, ardent New Dealer, but Guffey, in his victory over Jay Cooke, ran 103,231 votes behind Mr. Roosevelt. The complete vote in the senatorial contest was: Guffey (D) 2,065,462; Cooke (R) 1,891,666.

The Democrats also picked up four seats in the U. S. House of Representatives and thirty-nine in the state house of representatives. They retained the offices of state treasurer and auditor general.

In the state Senate, Republicans gained six seats and held their

Retreating Enemy Sections Attacked; Captured Italian Troops Found To Be Ill-Clad

By The Associated Press
ATHENS, Nov. 6.—Greece's "bal-let skirled" artillerymen, after pounding Koritzza from newly-won mountain fortifications, have the Italian invasion base completely at their mercy. Greek messages from the front said tonight.

There even were some reports the Greeks had Koritzza, which is ten miles inside Albania. Military observers believed it possible scattered troops might have reached the outskirts, although official confirmation was lacking.

Retreating enemy sections were shelled by their own troops. The Greek high command said in recounting the capture of dominating mountain peaks south of Koritzza. Here the Greeks set up artillery and were reported pouring an unending stream of six-inch shells into the town.

Italians Strengthened

These heights gave considerable strength to positions already taken from the Italians on adjacent mountain tops, the Greeks asserted.

Despite the reports that Greeks already had entered Koritzza, some military observers doubted they would choose to occupy and defend it for any length of time, at least until the Italian strength in the area had been appreciably weakened.

As it is, the Greeks declared, their artillery has made the Italian air-dromes and supply lines about Koritzza virtually useless at a minimum cost. But, once large Greek forces descended the plains and entered the town, the Italian tanks, thus far of little aid to the invaders, might be much more effective.

At least 1,000 Italians have been captured since yesterday, the Greeks asserted, by their picturesque fighters. Pierce Greek hand grenade and bayonet charges were declared to have terrorized the invaders.

Italians Ill-Clad

Bus caravans of captured Italians, who appeared ill-clad for fighting in the snow-blanketed mountains, began pouring into Salonika during the day. The arrival of five busloads was witnessed by J. Wes Gallagher, Associated Press correspondent.

Greeks questioning the prisoners quoted them as saying their officers had told them: "Greece will not fight; we will just wait."

Besides stiff land resistance, the Greeks said Premier Mussolini's air-men had found the Greek air force stronger than it had been pictured to them. Six of twenty raiding Italian planes were reported shot down yesterday south of Salonika, which experienced its third day of respite from air assaults.

Aided by British planes, the Greek air force took the initiative in assaults on Italian troops and (Continued on Page Two)

Willkie Appeals For Unity among American People

Hopes for Ultimate Adoption of His Campaign Principles

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—Almost in the same breath that he conceded President Roosevelt's reelection, Wendell L. Willkie appealed today for national unity and called ultimate adoption of his campaign principles indispensable for the continuance of this free way of life.

The Republican candidate, declaring he had no plans beyond a two or three weeks' vacation, said he ended his campaign as he had entered it—"with no ill will or bitterness toward anyone."

Rested after six hours of sleep, Willkie started the day by drafting a congratulatory telegram to the president.

Congratulates FDR

"I know we are both gratified that so many American citizens participated in the election," it said. "I wish you all personal health and happiness."

Then in a radio talk he thanked all who supported him.

"I know," he declared, "that they will continue as I shall to work for unity of our people, in the completion of our defense effort, in sending aid to Britain and in insistence upon removal of antagonisms in America—all to the end that the government of free men may continue and may spread again upon the earth."

Sitting in a stiff-backed hotel chair at a press conference later, Willkie told reporters he expected to issue a statement in a few days on what part he believed the Republican party should play in national defense affairs during the coming years, and what part he wanted for himself within the party.

"I want to say I am feeling fine," he continued, "and I accept the election with complete good will. I am proud to have led the crusade I did, and I believe completely, and if anything more deeply, in it than I ever did before."

Believes in Principles

"I believe the ultimate adoption of the principles I advocated is indispensable for the continuance of this free way of life."

Mrs. Willkie, at her husband's side through the hours of ball counting last night, arranged to resume housekeeping in their Fifth avenue apartment for the remainder of the week.

Willkie said they had not selected their vacation site, but that they might stop at Rushville, Ind., his wife's home town, before going elsewhere.

He explained that he wanted to clean up party organization matters before leaving New York. He talked during the morning with Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of the Republican national committee and sent this telegram to his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary:

"It has been a great joy to be associated with you in this crusade. Sorry about the result, Mrs. Willkie, and I send our cordial greetings to you and Mrs. McNary."

Hoover Urges GOP To Continue Active

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 6 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said in an election count tonight that the "transcendent duty now is the full cooperation of everybody" toward national preparedness and keeping out of foreign wars.

"The Roosevelt administration has the responsibility of government and leadership in national policies," he said. "Yet our whole democratic system depends on the maintenance of two great political parties. The Republican party has the responsibility to carry on constructive opposition and to contend for its principles."

"The avail of debate is in fact an instrument which creates national unity."

Bricker Is Easy Winner in Ohio

Governor Re-Elected by Huge Majority; Burton Elected

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6 (AP)—Ohio gave President Roosevelt its twenty-six electoral votes but re-elected Republican Gov. John W. Bricker by a record-shattering majority and sent Harold H. Burton, Republican mayor of Cleveland, to the U. S. Senate.

Populous industrial areas boosted Mr. Roosevelt's total today to 1,713,351 in 8591 of 8675 precincts, against 1,564,313 for Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, who carried agricultural areas by some 100,000 votes. Mr. Roosevelt's lead of nearly 150,000 votes compared to an Ohio 1936 majority of more than 620,000.

Bricker led former Gov. Martin L. Dewey in 8286 of 8675 precincts by a vote of 1,703,965 to 1,393,118.

Bricker's majority of more than 310,000 was the greatest in the state's gubernatorial history. He is the first Republican governor of Ohio to win reelection in forty years.

Burton, who will succeed Sen. Victor Donahey, veteran Democrat who did not seek reelection, paced his Democratic opponent, former Rep. John McSweeney, by nearly 114,000 votes in 8286 of 8675 precincts. The count: Burton 1,489,663; McSweeney 1,385,685.

Engineers Plan To Help in Defense

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 6 (AP)—Plans for participation in the national engineering defense training program were discussed today by college, agency, and industrial representatives of the seventh district in the program.

The district, embracing Maryland and the District of Columbia, is directed by Dean S. S. Steinberg, University of Maryland college of engineering.

The discussion centered upon methods of meeting the needs of industries for persons with engineering training, and "short courses" for training engineers. Nine million dollars have been made available for the national program.

Among the group were representatives of colleges, industries in Maryland and the District of Columbia, employment commissions, Washington Board of Trade, third corps area army headquarters, Civil Service Commission, and State Roads Commission.

Willkie Gaining In Michigan Count

DETROIT, Nov. 6 (AP)—President's thin lead over Wendell L. Willkie in the rivalry for Michigan's nineteen electoral votes dwindled a little in late tabulations tonight.

With sixty-three of the state's 3,832 precincts still to report, Roosevelt's vote was 1,007,474 and Willkie's 1,003,688. Willkie gained seventy-nine votes from nine precincts since the last count.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

British and Chinese newspapers are expressing jubilation over President Roosevelt's reelection.

This is a dominant new factor in the war news, sharing significance with the amazing stand of the Greeks against Italy, a stand which is verging toward a military disaster for Hitler's ally.

Now that the election is over, it is possible to speak of it in relation to the war without risking charges of political propaganda. This writer has no intention of delving into the pros and cons of the Roosevelt-Willkie campaign dispute as to which political outcome Berlin desired, but it can be gained that all the major capitals of Europe were watching the results with intense interest.

There is one London news item, however, that has meaning. The order halting compulsory evacuation of Hongkong by British non-combatants synchronized with word reaching London of Roosevelt's reelection.

There, as well as in Japan, the president and president-elect is clearly expected to show an even sterner front to "aggressor nations," east or west, backed by his new electoral victory.

Each subject was required to drink five or six ounces, sometimes more, of whiskey in fifteen minutes.

stock market investigation in 1933. It has been highlighted in recent months by Hopson's repeated attempts to establish that he was mentally incompetent to stand trial.

After his indictment last May on charges of illicitly "milking" his utility empire of $20,000,000 profits, Hopson's lawyers said that he had the delusion he was about to "explode."

He spent ten days in the Bellevue hospital psychiatric ward, and has been residing since at the Neurological Institute.

Has Five Lawyers

At the counsel table beside him were five lawyers, who brought an 18-foot-long bookcase, four shelves jammed with records, which led Judge Alfred Cox to remark whimsically:

"What are you trying to do—intimidate the court?"

As the jury was chosen Hopson bowed his head and gave vent to repeated groans.

The jury of business men and one housewife was quickly chosen. Other defendants were two lawyers formerly associated with Hopson, Charles M. Travis and Garrett A. Brownback. A fourth man, Frederick S. Burroughs, died after the indictment.

Special Assistant Attorney General Hugh Fulton opened the prosecution with a thumbnail description of the involved AG&E setup, and said that in 1922 Hopson bought for $100,000 the voting stock of the Associated Gas and Electric Company which, with the cooperation of two subsidiaries, controlled $5,000,000 worth of properties.

He said that more than 300,000 people all over the world—but ninety per cent of them company employees—invested money in the company.

No Clerical Help

"Yet for all its size, the company did not employ any bookkeepers or any stenographers, or have any of the usual employees that any business, however small, would have had," Fulton continued.

"Instead," Hopson devised a scheme whereby he employed Mary Jones as a stenographer for $120 a month. He then billed the system for $240 for her work, pocketing the other $120. Multiplying Mary Jones by hundreds of such bills and you will find that Hopson profited to the extent of about half a million dollars a year, the whole process footing up to a grand total of $7,500,000."

Another device was huge expense padding, Fulton said.

Hopson issued stock and manufactured records indicating that the shares were owned by employees. Fulton said, whereas actually certificates assigning the stock back were kept locked in his confidential vault.

Drinking Driver Held More Safe In Some Cases

Scientific Evidence Finds He May Excel Sober Motorists

By RENNIE TAYLOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6 (AP)—Scientific evidence that some people can lose off five or six drinks in fifteen minutes and still handle an automobile better than certain others who are cold sober was reported today by two California researchers.

Drinking, they said, undoubtedly lowers driving efficiency. But they found that while a given amount of alcohol in the blood, for instance enough to make the average person unsteady, might make some unfit to sit behind the wheel, it had no significant effect on the driving efficiency of many others.

They concluded there were no scientific grounds for setting a definite figure of alcohol in the blood as a yardstick for intoxication; that one might just as well use a person's height rather than a pair of scales to determine his weight.

The report was made by Dr. Henry Newman, neuropsychiatrist at Stanford University Medical School, and Edwin Fletcher, of the state motor vehicle department, to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

They tested a group of physicians, medical students and high school graduates as representative of the cross-section of intelligent drivers, by a series of trials simulating actual traffic conditions. The trials were made on a driving test machine, not on the highway.

Each subject was required to drink five or six ounces, sometimes more, of whiskey in fifteen minutes.

The researchers agreed that motor vehicle operations generally would be safer if drinking and driving could be separated entirely, but said there was no possibility of bringing this about.

"Public sentiment," they added, "is definitely against the drunken driver but not against the drinking driver."

Nazis Tough on British Shipping

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Destruction of British shipping and shipping "usable by the enemy" at a rate about twenty-five per cent in excess of Germany's unrestricted submarine campaign of the World war was reported today by Adolf Hitler's high command.

That comparison, drawn from but not stated in the daily communiqué, is based on the monthly averages of the total tonnage claimed destroyed in fourteen months of the present war—7,162,200—and the comparable total, 8,534,000 tons, for the 21-month unrestricted World war campaign starting in February, 1917.

The comparable averages thus are 406,380 tons and 511,585 tons, according to the Germans.

Moreover, the acceleration in September and October brought a total claim of 1,308,600 tons, or 654,300 tons a month.

Submarines alone accounted for 946,000 tons of the September-October figure, it was said, and surface raiders and planes the rest.

British Prime Minister Churchill told the London House of Commons yesterday that the German war on shipping menaced Britain perhaps more ominously than the air siege.

As to that siege, the high command reported nine British planes shot over England's Portland naval base without a German loss as part of a total of twenty-three British craft downed yesterday at a cost of six German planes.

buildings and houses had been crushed, an untold number of persons killed and wounded, and students, teachers and office workers buried, alive and dead, in the rubble of an art school and office building. Liverpool, too, was besieged from the sky simultaneously with London, a few hours after King George and Queen Elizabeth had toured the vast warren of docks on the Mersey side there.

It still was light enough for the Spitfires to fight it out with the raiders when they flew en masse at Southampton and the air ministry reported that most of the attackers failed to get over the coast.

Three German planes were shot down over England during the day to two for the British, the ministry added, and a Dornier protecting ships off Brest, on the other side of the channel, was knocked out of the air.

British Machine-Gunned

In one town on the northeast coast two men and a woman were wounded by machine-gun bullets from a low-flying Heinkel.

The air ministry's communiqué listed Royal air force raids overnight on ships at Bremerhaven and Bremen; petroleum sheds at Emden, where thirty fires were reported started; a power station at Hamburg and a submarine building yard at Vegesack, near Bremen.

The "invasion ports" from Flushing to Boulogne were bombed heavily, and numerous German-occupied airdromes were raided. The British lost two bombers; shot down one fighter.

Italian communiques supplemented the British official reports by acknowledging the third British raid in less than a week on the Naples area, and saying fourteen persons were killed.

Three Janiak Boys Playing Football

CLEVELAND, Len Janiak, Cleveland Rams' fullback, has two football playing brothers. Bob is a fullback at Ohio University, Len's Aluma Mater, and Nestor is an end at South High here. Janiak began his professional career with the Brooklyn Dodgers last year. He was purchased from the Dodgers by the Rams early this season.

Gov. Dickenson Defeated in One Of 4 Victories for Democrats

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Victory for Forrest C. Donnell, Republican gubernatorial candidate in Missouri, cancelled a previous gain of the Democrats tonight and left the two parties at a standoff in twenty-nine of the thirty-three races for governors in yesterday's election.

The Democrats picked up sixteen places to the Republicans' thirteen, but each scored four upsets, so the total of governors' parties was just the same as it was before the first ballot was cast.

Of the four undecided states the Republicans were leading in Montana and Washington, while the Democrats were slightly ahead in Kansas and Indiana.

In their four upsets, the Democrats unseated four Republican governors—Michigan's Luren Dickenson.

Minnesota's Harold E. Stassen, keynote speaker at the Republican national convention, defeated Hjalmar Petersen, Farmer-Laborite, and Ed Murphy, Democrat.

And in Massachusetts, where President Roosevelt piled up a substantial lead, Republican Governor Leverett Saltonstall noed out his Democratic opponent, Paul A. Dever.

British Launch New Air Attacks

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP)—A new and widespread British assault by explosive and fire bombs upon the long German-held coastline of Europe and upon German shipyards and German aerial centers was reported tonight by the Air Ministry.

These raids, carried on last night, sought out the vital centers of the German war and invasion machine, and this was the ministry's story of a familiar campaign.

Nazi shipyards at Bremerhaven bombed for more than an hour from a cloudless sky, violent explosions rocking the upper air and more than thirty fires started in the area.

Many explosive bombs and nearly 1,000 incendiaries unloaded, in both high-level and shallow dive attacks, on gasoline tanks in the naval dockyards at Emden.

The dockyards at Bremen and at the nearby submarine-building base at Vegesack similarly assaulted, and Hamburg left redly outlined in the glare of many fires.

Airdromes at various points in Germany and in German-occupied territory again bombed, along with German railway junctions.

Ports and shipping — Boulogne, Flushing, Antwerp, Calais, Dunkerque — bombed heavily and fires left blazing where so many had blazed before.

Eight States Always For the Winner

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Eight of the ten states which have ridden the bandwagon of the winning candidate in every election in which they have participated in this century kept that record clear in Tuesday's voting, incomplete returns indicated.

Two of the men, however, fell off the wagon. Kansas, which had gone to the winning candidate in every election since 1896, gave Wendell Willkie the biggest majority of any of the states he carried and North Dakota, which had hit every winner since 1892, missed yesterday by apparently giving the electoral vote to Willkie.

But New York, Maryland, Ohio, Wyoming, Idaho, Missouri, New Mexico and Arizona were following their tradition of riding with the winner. New York has missed just three times since the Civil War, in 1868, in 1876 and in 1916, going each time for a native son.

Maryland has not missed since 1888. Ohio since 1892. Wyoming since 1896. Idaho and Missouri since 1900, and New Mexico and Arizona since the first election in which they participated in 1912.

Britain Reports Seizure of Many Neutral Vessels

Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia Vessels Are Taken Over

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The British government disclosed today that it had seized two dozen ships flying the flags of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, and that this act of requisitioning is now the matter of diplomatic exchanges with Soviet Russia.

Members of the House of Commons, to whom the disclosure was made by Richard Austin Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, asked uneasy questions about the possible effect on future relations with the Kremlin. All three countries involved now are in the Soviet Union.

Butler, however, said that "I hope we shall be able to reach some agreement with the Soviet government," and added that the affair was "complicated and technical."

"Presumably all the requisitioned ships were in British or British-controlled ports and the British felt that their usefulness, in these days of increasing sinkings of British ships by U-boats, was paramount."

Butler also told questioners that Britain's lengthy, once-interrupted trade discussions with Russia still were proceeding, presumably under the direction of Sir Stafford Cripps, the British ambassador to Moscow.

Smith Asks All To Line Up Behind FDR

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, who campaigned for Wendell Willkie, called upon Americans today to "line up solidly" behind President Roosevelt.

"The American people have spoken," said Smith, 1928 Democratic presidential candidate, in a post-election statement.

"The campaign is past history and should be forgotten. Every American should line up solidly behind the president in the interest of the future welfare of our country."

quietly in his boyhood home. He will be back in Washington tomorrow, facing two and a half more months of his present term and four years of his third.

No Time Now for Any Spirit of Defeatism

IF EVER a man deserved to win an election for the presidency of the United States, it was Wendell L. Willkie.

He deserved it not only for his courage, his ability, his stamina, his sincerity and his optimism, but he deserved it for the underlying justness of the cause he represented and the plain need for its functioning at this critical period in the nation's history.

But, in the face of the gigantic handicaps provided by a bought and not-paid-for vote of thirteen millions enjoying the receipt of federal treasury checks and bounties, the work of big city political machines, the use of extraordinary powers and the cunning use of half-truths, the odds were too great.

And more's the pity that was the case because those who supported Mr. Willkie believed that he would have brought to national management a new vigor and vitality, a sense of reality and a spirit of unity that have been so direly needed.

Willkie battled against his terrific odds bravely and untiringly—fought almost incredibly down to the last minute of the last hour, and fought squarely and fairly. He deserves a tribute for the inspiring way in which he carried on and for the remarkable resurgence for which his personal energy was responsible. It is to be hoped that his services may yet in some way be utilized by the people.

The stunning results of this election bring fears to the many thoughtful persons who have sensed the dangers facing the nation's institutions and its economy. They may be excused if they wonder whether free elections are only a thing of memory, whether continued concentration of power may gravely or perhaps irretrievably impair many of the things they have so long held precious.

But, this is no time for any spirit of defeatism on the part of those who battled for the Willkie cause or anybody else. That is something of which this country has had entirely too much. Rather is the outcome of this election to be taken as a challenge to a larger, longer, more intensive and more effective service in behalf of their visualization of free, representative government. Let them take inspiration from the valiant spirit of their splendid leader.

The thing now faced by the Republicans is the duty to battle on conscious of the rightness of their cause. They must press their members of Congress to renewed activity in providing the salutary and necessary checks to a government run wild with wanton spending with no regard for its inevitable consequences, and to the personal ambitions that tend toward a government by men rather than a government by law.

The same duty faces all the Willkie Democrats and the other Democrats who cannot subscribe to the New Deal way and are fearful of it. They must press their Democratic members in Congress to renewed efforts in providing a strong and sensible opposition to those plans, policies and measures deemed inadvisable or dangerous. Only now by a determined minority can this nation be saved from disaster. Meanwhile, Providence willing, let all bear the hope that we shall some day struggle safely through the rocks and over the shoals that are now being battered by a stormy sea.

As for the acrimonies and the bitterness occasioned by the campaign—let all take a look at the cartoon published on this page and act accordingly. That is, as the caption indicates, one of our good old American traditions—and thank Heaven we still have some of them left intact.

Possible War Plague Calls for Precaution

THERE IS ONE WAR of which, until recently, little has been heard. During the last week, however, cautious warnings indicate the extent of the anxiety. It is a fight against the rise of a stupendous epidemic which in a few months might snuff out more lives than all the naval, military and air operations put together.

People who lived through the last war will never forget the terror of the influenza plague. Because of its extreme virulence, the disease decimated army cantonments, spread through civilian sectors and jumped unpredictably from one corner of the country to another. When it had run its course, thousands had died and hundreds of thousands had been left with derivative ailments.

Medical authorities in Europe fear that a far more devastating epidemic is in the making if present conditions persist. A new factor is responsible for this gloomy outlook—air raids. When millions of city dwellers are packed daily and nightly into bomb-proof shelters, ill-ventilated and often without proper sanitary accommodations, the problem of preventing the spread of disease is greatly magnified. Add to that the lowered resistance due to loss of sleep and restricted diet, and there is reason for worry.

Although America is fortunate to have an ocean barrier between it and the war zones, the experience of the last war shows that mere geographical isolation cannot be banked on too heavily. There are many contacts with Europe. Refugees, the very people who would be most susceptible are coming to America for asylum. Since the early manifestations of the European epidemic belong in the spinal meningitis category, a highly communicable and usually fatal disease, once it gained a foothold here it might spread with alarming rapidity.

That government authorities and the medical profession are taking measures in plenty of time to forestall such a catastrophe is the hope of all Americans. It will be easier to prevent the outbreak of an epidemic than to halt its course after it gets started, but the nation should be ready for both contingencies.

Legitimate Self-Confidence And Stupid Conceit

EFFICIENCY EXPERTS and practitioners in the art of super-salesmanship lay stress on what is casually termed "self-confidence." To sell one's product or to sell one's self, they say, one must have confidence in his product or in his talents and ability.

But there is a wide difference between legitimate self-confidence and stupid conceit. The latter quality, unfortunately, is to be found in many persons, in many different walks of life, and when displayed to any noticeable degree at all is insufferable.

Beautiful women—that is, those who are naturally beautiful without dependence upon artificial aids—often take on the air of having been altogether responsible for their pulchritude. They forget that fate just as easily might have made them hideous. And the same thing is true of the handsome youth who, realizing his handsomeness, affects the role of having been altogether responsible for his good looks.

Conceit, however, takes its worst form in those human frames which lay claim to more than the average brains or intellectuality, and this applies particularly to professional walks of life. Even in the matter of brains or intellect, whatever gods that are obviously are as capable of producing morons as they are of producing intellectual giants.

The most beautiful woman, of course, is that woman who, although quite lovely, seems unconscious of it. And the wisest man is he who realizes that mortal wisdom, and especially his own endowment of it, has many limitations.

Common Sense Gains On Fashion Vogue

CURVES are returning to the girls in the films, says a word from Hollywood, which sounds suspiciously like one heard last year and the year before but this time it is accompanied by an actual statistic: That the typical cutie has put on fifteen pounds in the last five years.

Of course it is all wrong that fashion from whatever source, instead of common sense, should influence the eating habits of millions. If one authority is to have more attention than another, it should be medical and not that of the clothes stylist. Still, there is no use crying out against the nature of people, and it can only be regarded thankfully that the more persuasive authority happens, for the moment, to be right.

It might be thought that a public gradually accustomed to a few more pounds on its entertainers would soon learn to look askance at the gaunt girls of the 30s. Seeing Edna Purviance today, in a pre-war Chaplin comedy, she does seem a bit on the buxom side, but she looked well to beholders once, and she would again.

No one knows what damage has been done women by a slavish, unintelligent devotion to a fashion that was not meant for her. It must be considerable, and it will continue to be visited on her children. If doctors cannot lead her away from ill-advised monkeying with her diet and her weight, it is something that the immediate fashion happens to be leaning in the direction of their counsel.

With it becoming increasingly difficult, due to bombings, to bring coals to Newcastle, a relief agency keeps the old figure of speech alive by shipping potatoes to Idaho.

The mystery of the missing Italian fleet continues to confound the Briton. A thought is that the Duce may be saving it for the 1941 maneuvers.

What good is a radio if you can no longer turn it on and hear your favorite political hates denounced in expert manner?

Perhaps many of the newly-enlisted men don't know how to spell "reville" but it isn't long before they discover just what it means.

Do Women Understand Women?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Do they or don't they? They say they do. In fact, most of them insist that they do. They claim to be authorities on all other women.

But let a man let out the mildest peep on the subject, let him even hint that he knows a few facts about the nature of women—and what does he get? He gets the merry ha-ha. He gets a polite laugh and it's not so polite, either. He gets treated as though he were a simple child who shouldn't speak until he is spoken to and perhaps not even then.

But why shouldn't a man understand women? Didn't he have a sister or two, whose faults and caprices and charms were as familiar to him as bread and butter? Hasn't he been around and known quite a few women and doesn't he marry and have a wife? And don't women tell men things they won't tell each other, just as human beings confide secrets to strangers that they wouldn't whisper in the bosom of the family?

Isn't it just possible that men understand women much more profoundly than women understand women?

If they don't, then how did men keep women in what was almost slavery clear through the centuries until recently? If the women understood each other so well, why didn't they organize and rebel long before they did? And why isn't there more sex solidarity among them now, as there has always been among men?

Women have been rivals of each other through so many ages. They sat together when the men were away at war or hunting or just wandering over hill and through forest. They talked warily together and sometimes they exchanged confidences or dried each other's tears. But they sprang apart when the men came home and were rivals again. And I'm sure that rivalry for place or for favor is a foe to understanding.

If women understand each other as completely as men understand men, it's a miracle. If they do, they have acquired wisdom without having had experience. But perhaps I'd better stop. I can hear the merry ha-ha of the women coming swiftly in my direction.

We're Not Coming Into This Shindy, Gen. Johnson Says

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 6.—Due to the limits of space and time this column also has to be written before results of the election are known. It is like having to write about the slopes of Vesuvius just before a volcanic eruption is due. I would like to skip it.

In this domestic eruption, we seem to forget all about the war which, after all, is the greatest interest outside our shores. Some Rooseveltian columnist who seems to have miraculous sources of information, says that the great Winston Churchill is getting very impatient about us. He wants to know when we are coming into this shindy.

Never Coming In I hope Churchill can restrain himself because we're never coming in. It will cost us another hundred billion and if we spend that much and get into this war, we shall have seen the last of our democratic and economic system as we have known it.

The most remarkable thing I saw in this election was the enthusiasm of young people for Mr. Willkie. He himself seemed to grow younger in this campaign regardless of its gruelling demands. I never saw Mrs. Willkie look better than on its last night. I think she is the best campaigner he has had. When I told her that, she said, "Oh no, all I did was to wave."

The American Idea

Maybe so. But she represents to millions the average American's idea of a wife and mother. The Willkie family—father, mother and son—somehow carry that idea over without words—perfectly united, mutually adoring, a companionship as homely as an old farmhouse.

Win or lose, Mr. Willkie represents something the most precious and valuable in American life, and the whole country has come to know it. Eggs, wastebaskets and political scurrility cannot obscure it. He and his family are the prototype of the average American of Main Street.

The Livest Issue

If he had had at least a little professional organization—if he had been attended by people with a little more experience in campaign speaking—if advisers who were rank war interventionists had not prevented him from taking the forthright stand against war that is in his heart, his election would have been a walk-in. I know that from my own experience in many states and before audiences in the aggregate tens of thousands.

It was the liveliest issue in this campaign, but such was Mr. Willkie's instinctive shrinking from any appeal to emotion—any appeal to anything but what he regarded as debate on absolute factual issues alone—things that did not reside in conjecture but that he could prove by the book—that he wouldn't use it.

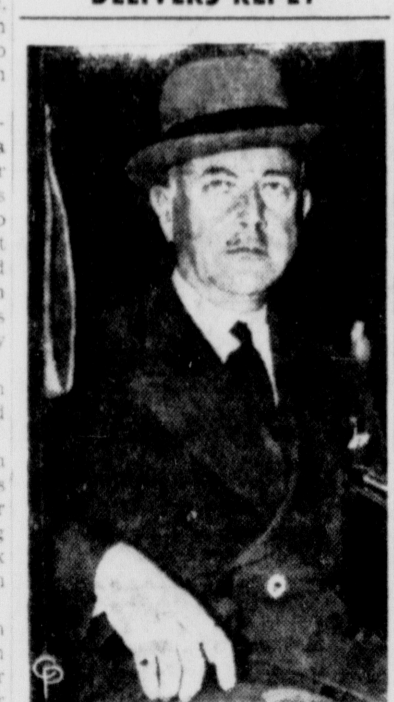

It was pretty but it wasn't politics—even perfectly legitimate politics. Yet, much as I regret to see a failure fully to express and to represent what I know to be the heart and soul of the American people—because there was no way to lay it out with a T-square and compass on a drawing board blue print—he wouldn't touch it. Yet, I am glad to have been so closely associated with a man so scrupulously conscientious, so fundamentally honest.

A National Asset

Even Lincoln was a far better politician. It may be that Willkie will not win. But it may not be that the American people have failed to recognize just about the most truly American institution in all America—Wendell Willkie and his family. I think I had something to do with making that clear. I am very proud of it.

Whether or not it created a president is not so important as that

DELIVERS REPLY

Gaston Henri-Have

French ambassador to the United States, Gaston Henri-Have, arrives at the state department in Washington to deliver the reply of Marshal Petain to President Roosevelt's appeal that the Vichy government limit or obtain from collaboration with Germany in the European war. The Marshal's answer was not made public.

IT'S AN OLD AMERICAN CUSTOM

Axis Leaders Are Viewed As Worried Over Job of Consolidating Conquests

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON diplomacy's unmistakable impression is that Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini's tremendous effort to consolidate all continental Europe against Britain hints strongly that they're dissatisfied with the conquests they have scored thus far at the expense of their neighboring countries on the old world mainland.

That is to say, France, Holland, Denmark, Norway and most of the Balkans, besides extinguishing Poland, but they haven't assimilated their inhabitants. The beaten peoples are as anti-Axis now as ever they were; or probably more so, from rage at having been beaten. At least that's the State department's opinion, based on reports it receives from over the Atlantic.

If they'd converted, to their side, the dwellers on the soil they've occupied, of course these folk would be an Axis asset. But if they have to be rigorously policed all the time to keep them under subjection, naturally they're a liability and a worry. This latter is the case, according to accounts from the war-torn continent.

It's realized that the lands the Axis partners have seized possession of undoubtedly provide them with excellent bases for operations in the direction of John Bull's island. They also are sources of supplies, available for the Axis' consumption. However, it takes force, or the threat of it, to do the confiscating, and that's a distraction from the Axis' other efforts.

Wide Discontent In short, Adolf and Benito are assessed as having a certain amount of disaffection in their own respective countries and close to 100 per cent of it in the democracies they've vanquished—temporarily, anyway. Such an underlying mass of violent discontent, if it exists, as competent observers believe it does, is seen from Washington as an insecure foundation for the dictators to build on.

The Vichy government of France, to be sure, seems to be fairly effectively dominated by the Axis, but official Washington's judgment is that the French generally don't acquiesce in it—that they'll go anti-Axis again the minute they think there's a ghost of a show for them. It's assumed that the Fuehrer and the Duce know this as well as anybody.

Spain isn't regarded as a dependable pro-Axis bet, either. General Franco, indeed, is under deep obligations to Adolf and Benito for helping him to demolish the Spanish republic, but if he gets into another war, to help them in return, the republicans are more than likely to grab the chance to break out once more. Should they do so, they still are strong enough to occupy all his attention.

Japan's of no use to the European Axis, except indirectly. If the Japs were to get into a mass with the United States, it would keep us busy in the Pacific, doubtless to the Axis advantage. They likewise must have a tendency to prevent Russia from turning anti-Axis and creating trouble for the Nazis and Fascists in the Balkans.

Russia's a deal of a problem. Nobody can have a bit of confidence in any deal the Soviets may frame up with anybody. They have their reasons for preferring Britain to the Axis, because their interests conflict with the Axis in the Balkans. They have their reasons for liking us, because they're traditional enemies of the Japs, and we're on strained relations with the Mikado.

Russia's Hopes Comrade Stalin has a loose compact with Fuehrer Hitler and Duce Mosollini, but it's agreed that he'd scrap it readily for a good tie-up with Britain. There's talk of a deal between himself and Tokio, but there's no question that he'd unload it in favor of a U.S. slicker to keep the Japs from bothering him. And some say it might pay us, little as we like the Communists.

Southeastern Europe is so mixed up that it's hard to evaluate. It assuredly isn't solidly pro-Axis, anyhow. Turkey and Greece emphatically are not. All in all, the Axis has a lot of territory to cover that it can't be extremely uncertain of. Which explains, as our state department reckons, its frantic attempt to get some unity into it, in the Axis' favor.

The Berlin and Rome press call it a "peace move." With a view to a "new world order." Our state department's very skeptical that Berlin and Rome would be undertaking a peace move at present if they weren't suspicious that they're about at the end of their string—that they'd better hang onto what they've got already and be satisfied with it—for the present.

One Man's View Of the Election

Shanks, W. Va., Voter Gives His Idea of the Outcome

Editor The Cumberland News:

Well, the election is over! What is the result? A stinging rebuke to big business, and those old traditionalists or anti-third-termers.

Old politicians chime in wisdom of the past.

And struggle on in blunders to the last.

And again:

Time makes ancient good uncouth; something old politicians seem never to have learned.

A lamentable connection with the rebuke was the turning over of many prominent Democrats whom the party had many times showered with honors. Their real reason for so doing was not as they say; fearing the end of democracy, or a dictator. Both statements are actually silly in the light of our form of government. Their main objective was to assist the Republicans in putting in the White House a business man that would today to even whim, or nod or beck of the so called big business, a man they could boss, or that would be a tool in their hands.

Many of these Democrats' success in life was in part due to what the party had done for them. Now that they have reached an age when they know they will never be candidates again, turn their backs upon the party at a time when its need for their support and influence was never greater, and at a time when their country never faced perhaps a greater peril.

Failure to have returned the president for another four year period—in the light of the situation of the country is now in—would have been

Munition Makers Of Japan Take Up Modern Art

By EDWIN C. HILL

Laurence P. Roberts, director of the Brooklyn Museum, returns from Japan with a report that the newly rich munition-makers are going to heavily for modern art.

Naturally, the big shot and shell men are a bit rusty on art lore and they are afraid of being gyped with old paintings or sculptures. There's no way of putting them to a chemical test. So they feel safer with the snappy new line, more in their dynamic and explosive new world than are the old shogun goods. Mr. Roberts says prices of ultra-modern paintings are soaring.

Nazi Germany, Japan's senior partner in the new planetary goose-step, also has tossed out a great deal of traditional arts but has cracked down even harder on modern art. Italy seems to have its mind mainly on the boy-office angle, and isn't going to de-value its assets or cry down any kind of art that it might possibly trade for a square meal. There are dark confusions and contradictions in the inter-play of art and oligarchies and out of them there has always come something that the iron men never understood and never will.

Era of Oppression

The days of the Japanese shogun were an era of ruthless oppression of the people, of cruel drudgery, of bare subsistence and of the thwarting of the great creative impulse of a clever and disciplined people. This impulse found an outlet, however, after long, dreary work hours humble people found time and energy to make beautiful prints. The shoguns didn't know they were beautiful. Their makers were not rewarded, beyond the satisfaction of their creative achievement. Free men, here and there around the world, discovered and validated Japanese prints. An Hiroshige, and Hokusai or an Toyokuni, bought for a few cents in Japan, might bring hundreds of dollars in the United States or Europe.

The usually alert Japanese were slow in becoming aware of this good thing. It was only a few years ago that they forbade the exportation of prints and began to buy them up throughout the world. But they were too late. All over the world are prints valuable enough to outfit a new homicide squad in China if they could be translated into Japanese yen. About five years ago, the Japanese government was all burnt up about this, but there was nothing it could do to turn time back.

Art and Poetry Repudiated

Aside from such considerations the new imperial Japan has pretty thoroughly repudiated its art and its poetry and it is understandable that its munitioners should be going in for modernistic paintings.

A friend tells me a story, pertinent here, perhaps. His sister at an embassy ball in Washington, talked with an excessively polite little Japanese military attaché. She had visited Japan and spoke appreciatively of a beautiful little Japanese folk poem. In quaint, sibilant English he told her that Japan was no longer pleased by praise of her poetry and her art and that a really tactful friend of his country would commend her smokescreens and her machines, and her great battleships. He explained that the gift of composing poetry was so common in Japan that it was but lightly regarded as an exercise worthy of only women and children. He added that any Japanese could compose a poem, extemporaneously, on any subject.

Poem Is Sought "The music has a nice rhythm," said the young lady. "Won't you make me a poem to go with it?" "Yes-s-s, madam," he said bowing low, and then, beating time to the music, improvised his poem: "Come-to me luff-only COME. I luff-you since last—au-TUM. I luff—from heart's—bot-TOM. COME."

Thus the modern militarist proving that Japanese poetry doesn't amount to much, and no doubt going home to buy modern paintings—if any. But I know a Japanese waiter who knows and treasures his native poetry and who does beautiful paintings of the Yeddo river which the Japanese so love to paint and draw. The people of Japan have not spoken—never through all history. We will no doubt be in error if we judge them too harshly by their military careerists and gun-makers.—Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

the greatest and gravest mistake this nation has made since the government went into operation 1789.

Our country is fortunate in having for its next president Franklin D. Roosevelt. West Virginia is fortunate in having for its next Governor M. M. Neely; men who seem to have the grandest combination of heart and conscience beneath their flag.

This article was written two days before the election. I was confident of a Democratic victory. The election results attest this optimistic view.

Council of Church Women To Sponsor Foreign Relief Drive December 10

Plans to sponsor a drive for "Foreign Relief" were made at a meeting yesterday at the Central Y.M.C.A. of the Cumberland Council of Church Women.

Sunday, December 10, was set aside as the day for this drive. Mrs. William A. Eisenberger, Mrs. John S. Cook and Mrs. A. L. Rogers were appointed as a committee to make necessary arrangements. The ministerial unit of the city will cooperate. Mrs. S. R. Neel, president of the Cumberland Council of Church Women, presided at yesterday's meeting and Mrs. Charles Montgomery led the devotionals.

Dedication Is Planned

Mrs. Jesse W. Holmes, Mrs. Franklin H. Ankeny, Mrs. A. N. Golladay and Mrs. Ralph Neve will attend Federation Day in Annapolis, November 19 at which time the speakers will be Governor Herbert O'Connor and President Stringfellow Barr of St. John's college.

There will be a dedication of trees given by individual clubs; turkey dinner at Blue Lantern Inn; visits to the Hammond-Harwood house and St. Anne's church; reception and drill at the United States Naval academy, and tea with Governor and Mrs. O'Connor at the executive mansion.

Church Circle Meets

Mrs. Grace Billings, Long, was hostess to the Philathea Class and Business Women's Circle of Grace Baptist church Tuesday evening at her home. What's the Difference?
WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE Between "complete" and "finish."
Complete is used in connection with a work or project.
Finish is used in connection with an act or process.
An author completes a book; a carpenter completes a house. A reader finishes the book; a runner finishes a race.
(A house is finished too, but this use of the word applies to painting, decorating and the like.)

Historians believe the earliest Vedic hymns in Sanskrit were sung or repeated for a thousand years before being committed to writing.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PULSE ASSOCIATION

BY MARIE BLIZARD

SYNOPSIS
READ THIS FIRST:
JUDGED winner of the Sember contest to find a successor to NANA HARRIS, the company's famous radio singer, KIT REILLY suddenly finds herself in the public spotlight and on the way to fame.

FRAN LE MAZE, Kit's friend, becomes her secretary-manager. After a farewell party given Nana by Kit, VANCE HEALEY, noted radio sports announcer, who gave her the chance to compete in the contest, drives her home. On the way he kisses her.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN
"TILL GIVE you a ring one of these days, angel."

That was the first thing that Kit remembered when she awoke the morning after her party at the Stork club. She said, "Fran, from now on I'm not in to anyone on the telephone. Say I have a sore throat and can't talk. To someone but Vance Healey."

It wasn't that she wasn't going to be in; nothing could induce her to leave the range of the telephone bell. The party had been on Friday. For six days she waited.

On the seventh, she was vocalizing when she heard Fran say, "No, Miss O'Reilly can't talk to anyone. She's got a sore throat. Who's calling, please? ... Mr. Healey?"

Kit cleared the space across the room in nothing flat and fell on the instrument.

Honey ran through her "Hello!" "Hi, Kit! Vance Healey. Sorry to hear you're ill."

"Oh, I'm not ill. Not a bit, really! I—I feel fine."

"Glad to hear it. Wish I did. This is the kind of a day that gets me down. Lousy weather, isn't it?"

"Is it?" Kit's voice trilled. Up to some fifteen seconds before, the gray of the overhanging sky, the cold moisture of the February day had depressed her immeasurably. Now the day was warm, bright, different from all other days because of his voice.

"I've been toying with the idea of asking you out for a cocktail, but the day is so—"

Kit, afraid that he'd get away, interrupted. "It's nice here," she said. "And we're not doing anything. Why don't you come over and let me give you a cocktail?"

"Are you having a party?" he asked.

"Not another soul," she lied blithely. Fran could get rid of the others who said they'd drop in.

"Good idea. I'll be over in about an hour."

They rang off.

"Miss O'Reilly, did it occur to you that we do not sport a cocktail shaker in this apartment? Or would you like me to ring up Tiffany and have one designed?"

Kit was half out of her lounging pajamas. "Well, do better than that," she retorted gaily. "I'll get one. And a pound of caviar. You call up the liquor store and ask them to send over the best they've got—mixed." The rest of what she had to say she said over her shoulder as she tried to pull a frock over the hat that already was on her head. "And get the superintending to send up a lot of firewood. Put a lace cover on the coffee table. See what you can do with some canapés. Have a lot of vases filled with water when I get back. Put out my amber chiffon hostess gown. Get me a cab!"

Vance rang the doorbell an hour and fifteen minutes later.

Kit swept out of her bedroom in amber chiffon looking as composed as if she'd spent half the day dressing. She cast a mental and physical glance over the situation. The cocktail shaker, she knew, was frosting in the refrigerator. The coffee table was inviting, with crystal and silver and small platters of canapés on the lace-covered top. Logs glowed and crackled in the hearth. The flowers were massed in fragrant blues and pinks and yellows. She moved a bronze bowl of early daffodils from the desk to the piano.

The bell was ringing sharply a second time when Fran came in with a bowl of caviar that looked like black pearls. "This is where Fran screams," she announced.

"No, don't go," Kit invited over her shoulder. There was no urgency in her invitation. Fran disappeared into her bedroom.

When Kit opened the door to Vance, he stood there for a moment framed in a doorway that seemed very small indeed. He filled it with his height. Kit looked up a long way at him and saw the dampness had curled his hair crisply and made it look darkly blond.

She said, "Come in and let me have your hat and coat." He peeled off his great coat. Under it, he wore a tweed jacket that smelled pungently sweet of the moors from whence the fabric came. Kit looked down at his brogue. "Tak, tak!" she murmured. "Where are the famed rubbers?"

"What a dangerous woman you could be," he said sadly. "You remember too much. Is it okay to tramp on these dainty rugs with wet shoes?"

"We call our place Liberty Hall and anything goes. Come in and get warm."

Vance's frankly curious gaze traveled over the room from corner to corner as she led him into it. She wished she could get used to considering it a drawing room.

"Will it do?" she asked.

"It's a honey."

"I hoped you'd like it. It was designed for comfort. There's a beautiful view when there's something beautiful to view. I've drawn the curtains today to keep out the dreariness. Most of the time we keep the windows free, but these days when it's so dark! Let's sit near the fire." She felt like an endless phonograph record.

Vance's eyes met the array on

About a Great Man with Nothing To Do but Have Fun—and a Girl Who Had Planned Something Bigger

By FRANK KEITH

Miranda's eyes focused on William Courtney Spencer, author. So that was the great Bill Spencer, writer of novels, short stories and radio scripts. She stared at him with the written. Bill growled, taking his eyes off Miranda long enough to grab two cocktails from a tray being passed.

"You'll do what?" Miranda asked. "I'll marry you and sneak off to plot now and you could tell me what you think of it."

"Oh, oh," Miranda said sweetly. "he's going to listen to my plot first. We're going to take a walk around the block. And then we'll come back and he'll listen to yours."

"Sure will," said Bill, "just as soon as we get back!"

On the way out Bill squeezed Miranda's hand. "You're wonderful," he said. "Simply marvelous!"

"Aren't I?" Miranda sighed, slipping her arm through his.

Across from the hotel was a little park. It was only a block square and in the center of it stood a large fountain. The benches encircling the pool were vacant, they had the place to themselves. The water falling from the fountain, the trees transformed by moonlight in the soft summer night, lent the place a tropical enchantment.

Bill lit a cigarette for Miranda and one for himself.

"Funny thing," Miranda said, "I've been here so many times before, and it's never seemed so beautiful as it does tonight."

"Me too," Bill agreed. "I never knew Bughouse Square could look like this."

They sat quiet for a while, just holding hands.

"Miranda."

"Yes, Bill."

"I think maybe the park has always looked the way it does tonight. I think it's just being with you that makes it seem so beautiful. Being here with you, and away from people who are forever wanting you to read a story. The doctor who took my appendix out, the kid who delivers my pants from the presser, my secretary's mother-in-law—it's a national derangement. I'm going to have to retire to a desert island if I'm going to get any work of my own done."

A street lamp illuminated the white stone belfry of a church. The Lindbergh Beacon swept the clear night sky.

"It's like a backdrop, isn't it," Miranda said.

"A desert island, where people can't read or write, and as beautiful as Bughouse Square in the early hours of the morning—and someone to go out for goats and coconuts!" Miranda—will you go?"

There was no hesitance in Miranda's voice. "I'd love it, Bill!"

"Yeah! You'd love it, talking about it here in Bughouse Square," Bill nodded.

"You just don't know how much I'd love it," Miranda grinned, thinking of the typewritten sheets she carried folded neatly in her bag. Twenty-five neatly typed sheets of manuscript. "You just don't know!"

PATTERN 9507

How proud you'll be to say, "I make all her clothes myself," when your youngster appears in this Marian Martin outfit. It's Pattern 9507, and wonderfully simple to make under the able directions of the Sew Chart. The jumper, nice in plaid wool or in spun rayon, buttons down the front or has just a button trim. You'll appreciate the fact that the gayly scalloped straps are cut on the straight-grain—a dressmaking time-saver. The entire jumper can be made in the minimum of time, for it's cut in just two pattern parts, excluding the optional pockets. To complete the costume, stitch up the gay little blouse. And, for chilly days, do add the pert bolero!

Pattern 9507 may be ordered only in children's sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6, jumper, requires 1½ yards 34 inch fabric, blouse, ¾ yard 35 inch fabric and bolero, ½ yard 34 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Smart, exclusive style is yours—at low, sew-at-home cost—in the Winter Pattern Book by Marian Martin. Dozens of easily made outfits for every purpose are colorfully presented, with stunning afternoon and after-dark frocks, trim tailored modes, gay sun or snow-bound vacation wear. There are office and campus wardrobes... workaday and "dress-up" styles for matrons of dumb detective knows what to do. "On His Record," by James O'Hara.

About 16,000,000 tons of ice are used annually by American railroads.

Move To 'Draft' Lewis Reported

Pro-Roosevelt Leaders
Said To Want Him To Hold CIO Post

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Authoritative CIO sources reported today that some of the pro-Roosevelt leaders in the organization were now behind a movement to "draft" John L. Lewis for another term as president but close associates declared emphatically that Lewis would not be persuaded to keep the post he promised to relinquish upon President Roosevelt's reelection.

Lewis himself was silent, turning down all requests for election comment. Those close to him, however, said the CIO leader felt he had made a commitment he could not revoke when he endorsed Wendell Willkie and told the nation in a radio speech two weeks ago that he would regard a Roosevelt victory as a vote of no confidence by labor in his leadership.

Philip Murray, a Roosevelt supporter who has been Lewis' closest friend in the labor movement for thirty years, is regarded as the heir to the CIO presidency.

While stepping down at the CIO convention Nov. 18 Lewis will continue to be a figure in the labor movement since he also is president of the United Mine Workers Union. Rumors that Lewis was in danger of losing his influence in the miners' union were scoffed at by UMW representatives who contended that the mine workers would follow Lewis as a labor leader if not as a political leader.

AFL sources said new moves to heal the split in the labor movement would be logical now but that it might take several months to work out a settlement.

The AFL will open its national convention at New Orleans the same day the CIO goes into session at Atlantic City. Advance reports indicate that William Green will be elected president for another term.

Bitterness

being a determined, unquitting political fighter, conceded Roosevelt's victory hours after most of his supporters had given up. He sent the president a telegram this morning expressing his congratulations, gratification that so many had voted and wishing him "all personal health and happiness."

Then he went on the radio with a brief address, accepted the result with "complete good will," and said:

"I extend my thanks to the thousands who so zealously and wholeheartedly worked for my election in various organizations and supported me personally."

"I know that they will continue, as I shall, to work for the unity of our people in the completing of our defense effort. In sending aid to Britain and in insistence upon removal of antagonisms in America—all to the end that government of free men may continue and may spread again upon the earth."

McNary, who unlike Willkie, conceded the election before retiring, sent the president this telegram:

Heartiest congratulations.

KNOW HOW TO COOK—Members of the High School Home Economics Clubs of Maryland are taught not only how to cook, but how to run homes on budgets — and these newly elected officers of the state organization are getting the business down pat. Left to right, they are Sue Sanders, Elkridge, Vice-Chairman; Maxine Beachy, Grantsville, Treasurer; Joyce Evans, Crisfield, President, and Rachael Galbreath, Streete, Secretary.

Wishing you all grace and administration all prosperity.

Mr. Roosevelt answered cordially.

Roosevelt Replies
"Many thanks for your generous and therefore characteristic message, and I know you will and I will work together in the national interest. I heartily reciprocate all your good wishes."

The president's reply to Willkie was:

"Please accept my sincere thanks for your message of congratulation. I greatly appreciate the assurance of your good wishes for my health and happiness which I heartily reciprocate."

Election reaction on the stock market was a selling wave which reduced quotations on leading shares by $1 to $4 or more. An incipient reversal of the trend developed at one time but failed to carry through, although it gained a little momentum later.

Commonwealth and Southern, the public utility holding company whose presidency Willkie resigned after his nomination, was off half a point to 1½ points at the opening, and dropped a bit further during the day.

The president, meanwhile, was at Hyde Park receiving the congratulations of his followers after a morning spent late a-bed. At noon, he laid the cornerstone of a new post office in Hyde Park village and pointing to banners carried by the crowd which assembled for the event, said "there's your story."

One placard said: "When Lewis resigns labor will have peace." Another: "Not Lewis but unity." A third: "Mr. President, we are gratified" and a fourth: "Our champ, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Lewis' Plans Unknown
The reference was to the leader of the CIO, who, coming out for Willkie with a denunciation of the president, announced that if the president were reelected he, Lewis, would resign as CIO leader because he would consider the result a vote of non-confidence in himself.

Lewis was saying nothing today. Under the terms of his speech, the resignation was to be submitted at the CIO's convention this month. The developments gave rise to increasing talk of a reconciliation between the CIO and the American Federation of Labor.

Mrs. Roosevelt attended the cornerstone laying with the president, and then made plans for returning to Washington ahead of him.

"This is too serious a time for the president to feel anything but a great sense of responsibility," she said. "If, when the final count is in, it means a great vote of confidence, any one of course must be deeply gratified and must renew his determination to do his best."

As to Willkie's future plans, he would say only that he expected first of all to go somewhere and rest.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Distributed by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Shall She Wait?
Dear Miss Fairfax:
For a long time I've known that he loves me even as I love him, but he hesitates because of his school. He has two more years in college, and then says he couldn't marry for several years. Neither one of us wants to be tied up in an engagement for such a long time.

I continue to accept invitations from other boys, but am wondering if it's wise for me to consider marriage to him at all, since I am already past 20. He says he would never stand in the way if I learned to care for someone else in the meantime.

PERPLEXED.

You see all the angles of this case so clearly, that I believe, in the long run, you will make your own decision. The young man has two years of college, and then he could not marry until he is settled in his profession and capable of supporting a wife. He also tells you he would not stand in your way if you wish to marry—a fine gesture, this. But the detachment you are both able to summon concerning your problem suggests this is no head-long Romeo and Juliet affair. If you are what is known as "desperately in love," you would not count the cost of waiting at the present time, even if you changed your mind later and decided you'd better not wait for each other. Under these circumstances, why don't you continue good friends, each being free to make new social contacts, without being definitely engaged?

Too Shy To Call

Dear Miss Fairfax:
I met a girl two years ago and have fallen in love with her. Although we haven't gone together all this time, we have been corresponding, as I've been away part of the time. We've been engaged since July, 1940, but we seem to have drifted apart. She never goes any place so I can see her, and it seems that I've lost faith in her. She says she still loves me and I'm sure that I love her more than ever.

Could it be possible that she has changed her mind and hates to tell me? I have asked her several times, and she says she still wants me. I am 19 years old and she is 21.

E. D. G.
I've had letters from all sorts of lovers and would-be lovers, but yours is the first from a young man who hesitates to call on the girl to whom he is engaged. The young lady claims she still cares about you. Why dangle on the brink of such a situation? Demand a showdown. The best of luck to you.

Woes of a Stepmother

Dear Miss Fairfax:
"This thing called love" has surely been bad medicine for me. I married a widower, and was so madly in love with him that I never stopped to consider that he only wanted me for a housekeeper and to care for his four unruly children.

I stood it for two years, imagining things would get better. But as he always took their word against mine, even when they put greasy bread and butter in the box where I kept my beautiful white wedding gown, I began to see my mistake. His 15-year-old son got angry with me and beat me when I spoke to him about coming in to the house with muddy boots, which I had to clean up.

His father told me I was foolish to take a child's anger so seriously. The child is six feet tall and weighs 185 pounds.

Before my marriage I commanded a salary of $140 a month as typist and stenographer. I hate to acknowledge failure, but feel, if I try to keep on any longer, I shall lose my mind. I'm thankful we've no children.

A STEPMOTHER WHO FAILED

I can't imagine why any woman, especially one capable of earning her own living, should put up with such treatment a day longer. You were madly in love, but your thrifty husband was looking for a housekeeper and child attendant to whom he did not have to pay wages. Judging from letters which come to this column, there are a good many such men. Why any woman will put up with them passes understanding.

Poor Matrimonial Risk

Dear Miss Fairfax:
A year ago I started going with a young man of 23 — I am 20. We liked each other very much, and became engaged in three months. He wasn't making good wages, so we decided to wait about a year. We always seemed to have a good time, and enjoyed making plans.

Four months after we became engaged, I found that we weren't getting along so well. I guess we were both to blame. He started to complain about my going out without him, and wanted to know where I went. I seemed to have lost all my freedom.

I decided to go away for a couple of weeks, and found that I didn't miss him one bit while he got drunk the first night I was gone. So when I returned I gave him back his ring and broke the engagement.

Soon after I saw him with another girl which made me terribly jealous, and before you knew it we were going together again and engaged again. He had a better job, making more money. Now he wants to buy

Treasure Seeker, 70, Continues 27-Year Search for "Lost" Mine

Has Cut Away Surface of Seven-Acre Plot to Depth of Four Feet

By Central Press

MENARD, Tex. — Talk about determination and stick-to-it-iveness, "Old Man" Frank Mullins, 70-year-old treasure seeker of this southwestern town, has it to the nth degree.

Because Frank Mullins, rain or shine, will be found digging away, one hole after the other all over the hillside and valley which he owns.

And this has been going on for 27 years now!

It was in 1913 that Joe Decker, landowner of this section, sold Mullins a seven-acre plot of ground for $6,000 cash. It was valuable property, as it is less than one block from the main street of Menard, a town of 2,000.

The plot also had valuable assets. It had been the town's wagon yard for many years. Ranch folk and farmer folk from many miles about used the yard when they drove to town. Also an old log house, the first built in the town back in the early '60's, was on the property.

Seeking Lost Mine

However, Frank Mullins had read many of the old stories about lost mines along the San Sabá river. And this plot of ground fronts on the river. He began digging as soon as he acquired possession of the property.

Mullins dug under the floor of the log house, then took out the floor entirely. Next, he tore down the historic old building and kept digging. During the intervening years, he possibly has dug the top four feet of soil from off the entire plot of seven acres.

And Mullins keeps on digging, day after day. Fellow townsmen shake their heads. Most of them seldom give him a thought any longer. When a visitor hears the story and asks about Mullins, they say indifferently:

"I guess you'll find him out there behind the stores. I saw him the other day when I passed by. But he shore is getting old."

Mullins, when approached, says: "I'll have some news for you the next time you come." And his careworn face brightens.

Uses No Chart

"Have you a chart to go by?" he was asked.

No, I don't have anything to go by. But I am going to find it all right," insists the old man.

And Mullins just swings his pick and keeps on, hardly able to spade the dirt out of the four-foot hole which resembles a newly dug grave. It is only two feet from another hole dug a few days ago.

Townsmen recall that the old man once found a lot of old coins—about 10 years ago. Some say the value of the find was about $2,000. And they believe that is why he keeps on at his self-appointed job.

"But he has spent about $15,000 at it," says a local banker. "I know—because he had that much money when he came here."

a car and make me responsible for the payments, as he expects to be called for conscription.

Do you think I ought to break our engagement before he leaves for the army, as I feel that I don't care to wait another year to be married? I feel as if he's depending on me for everything.

L. F.

From what you tell me about this young man, he strikes me, as I think you realize, a poor matrimonial risk. You didn't miss him when you were separated and only took him back because you saw him with another girl. When you did that it wasn't love that prompted you to make up, but good old-fashioned tooth-and-claw jealousy. Young men who expect their girls to be responsible for car payments, well—that speaks for itself.

Question of Nationality

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Our ages are 21 and 19. I am partly of her nationality and of another race. This is our difficulty. Her father wants her to marry a man of their race, and for that reason has forbidden us to go together.

Her mother has been very kind to us, and has tried to talk her husband over, but to no

Likes the "Old Fashioned Type"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The girl I've been going around with is of the "devil-may-care" type. It's hard to keep up with her, because often when I call up she's out. I believe she goes out with other boys. I'm not sure just what I really think of her. I thought I might take out another girl, but I can't seem to get away from this one. She smokes, her views are opposite to mine, both on social and religious matters.

I've always thought I'd like my girl to be of the old-fashioned type. Do you think I ought to give up this modern girl and wait until my ideal comes along?

AL

My dear young man, I don't need to tell you that your continued suit of the young woman you describe as a modern girl is contrary to the fact that you say you are in search of the old-fashioned type. Why do you go to all this trouble? If you think you're going to change this modern girl into the old-fashioned type, I'm afraid you're wasting your time. In fact, I'm quite sure you are. Perhaps, however, if you keep on with this modern girl, you will give up your idea and be modern yourself.

But taking you seriously, which indeed I do, please let me say that in my opinion you would do well to pay more attention to girls rather than to one girl. I am quite sure if you go around a bit you will find the one who will make you happy.

Took Out Other Girls

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 18 years of age and have never had a real boy friend. I met a young man of 22 years, and became very much interested in him. He took me out several times and I thought he liked me. One day he bought a new automobile and started taking out different girls. That made me terribly jealous, although I didn't let him know about it. Whenever he sees me he is polite, but doesn't pretend to care for me at all.

He started going "steady" with a girl from another town, and seemed to have forgotten me. The other day he called up and asked me to go to a show, but my mother said I better not go, so I don't. He said this other girl meant nothing to him and never did. I can't understand him. One minute he acts as if he's fond of me, and then he'll turn around and take out another girl.

TESSIE

Let me congratulate you on the wisdom of not showing you were jealous by making catty remarks about the girl your boy friend took out while you two were not going together. That, my dear, is probably the reason he came back to you. It's too bad your mother won't allow you to go out with this young man occasionally, but if she doesn't want it there's nothing to be done about it.

It's a young boy's nature to be equally nice to all girls when all girls are attractive to him.

Gossips Got Busy

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Several weeks ago I met a very nice young man at a so-called dance. We've been out together several times and he has always treated me with respect.

I have a couple of neighbors who are regular busy-bodies.

Never Let Colds Hang On! — But Don't Experiment

Colds that linger may expose you to more serious sickness. Take no chances by neglecting them.

Start at once using Father John's Medicine. For 85 years it has been fighting colds successfully.

Rich in vitamins, it supplies pure nourishing elements that aid the body in "throwing off" colds sooner.

And it helps restore normal bodily resistance and strength. No drugs.

Armistice Day Program Planned At Lonaconing

School Pupils and Legionnaires To Parade to Soldiers Memorial

LONA CONING, Nov. 6.—James P. Love Post No. 92 American Legion, in collaboration with the students of the Jackson Street school, will fittingly observe Armistice Day Monday at the Soldiers Memorial, Main street, at 11 a. m.

The Legion, some forty-six strong, will march from the Jackson Street school at 10:30 o'clock to the monument where the special services will be held. The Lonaconing City Band, recent prize winners in Cumberland, will also march with the group.

The Rev. James Murphy, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church will deliver the main address. Officers of the Legion will also have part in the program.

A color guard of the post will head the parade, in which more than 100 children will participate.

The members of the post will meet at their headquarters on Main street at 10 o'clock and from there they will march to the school and return.

The placing of a wreath on the Soldiers Memorial has been an annual custom of the students of the Jackson Street school. In past years, several of the ex-service men escorted the children to the scene, but since Post 92 has become active, it will send the complete membership in parade and as escorts.

Brief Mention

Tables Are Turned; Bass Hooks Angler

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Ed Novak, Pittsburgh, holds the distinction of being the largest man in the history of Hardy county to get hooked by a bass.

Novak, who stands six feet four inches and weighs over 200 pounds, was hooked in the lip by a fish hook when he bit into a bass at breakfast. The hook was imbedded in the back of the fish and was overlooked in the cleaning of the fish. The wound was slight and caused little injury.

Novak was with a party of three Pittsburgh sportsmen who were guests of Ott Gohdes at his cabin on the South Fork of the South Branch river. Novak says from now on he will look before biting at all bass in this section.

Kress Will Manage St. Paul Ball Club

St. Paul, Nov. 6 (AP)—Promising his personal participation in 154 games at shortstop, Ralph (Red) Kress was named manager of the St. Paul American Association baseball club yesterday. He succeeds Foster (Babe) Ganzel, who retired last fall. Receipt of Kress' signed contract was announced yesterday by Business Manager Lou McKenna after directors of the Saints had formally approved his choice at their annual meeting Monday.

Return of the 33-year-old red head to the American Association as an active player and manager marks a reversal of the Saints' five-year policy of bench executives.

In organized baseball since 1927, Kress is best known in the association for his inspiration performance with Minneapolis in 1937. Down from Washington, Kress won the Sporting News award for most valuable player in the association. He batted .334, drove in 157 runs and hit 37 home runs.

This is to be Kress' first experience as a manager.

Wife of Veteran Minister Dies At Springs Home

Mrs. Catherine Otto Miller Succumbs at 80; Garrett Native

GRANTSVILLE, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Catherine Otto Miller died last night at her home at Springs. She was about eighty.

Born on the farm now occupied by Wilson Folk, near here, she was a daughter of Jacob and Annie Otto and had spent practically her entire life in this section. She suffered a stroke of paralysis a short time ago, from which she never completely recovered.

Mrs. Miller was the wife of Gideon Miller, the oldest Mennonite minister in the Casselman Valley district and one of the oldest in the southwest Pennsylvania conference district. She had been a devout member of the Springs Mennonite church since early childhood.

Surviving besides her husband, are three sons, Dwight, Myron and Aaron Miller; two sisters, Mrs. H. M. Gelnert and Mrs. Wilson Livingston, and one brother, Jacob Otto, all of the Springs community.

Woods Fire

Approximately four acres of the wooded area on the Harrison Yommer and Stone House farms were swept by fire yesterday. The blaze was discovered by a hired man on the Yommer farm about noon, and although it had not gained any great headway at that time, it continued to spread rapidly.

The New Germany CCC boys responded to the call for help in fighting the flames and, together with the men on the two places and neighbors who volunteered, worked until nearly midnight before the fire could be completely extinguished. It is thought the blaze was started by some hunters who had been seen in that section of the woods a short time before the fire was noticed.

In this respect, hunters are again cautioned to be especially careful in tossing cigar and cigarette stubs, pipe fillings and lighted matches about while in the woods.

Grantville Briefs

The pennant for the best attendance average at the Grantville school was won this month by the seniors. Their average for October was 97.5 percent. The sixth grade ranked second with 97.1 percent and the freshmen, third with 95.6 percent.

Friday morning will probably be one time when all of the youngsters will look forward with pleasure to going to school. Instead of beginning with the usual class recitations, however, they will be entertained at a circus. Through the Antrim Bureau, Philadelphia, the school is sponsoring a program by Andersons Circus which is to be held in the high school auditorium at 9 o'clock. The presentation will feature the tricks and antics of dogs, ponies and monkeys and promises to be very entertaining. The performance is open to the general public as well as students of the school.

The annual Garrett county teachers' banquet will be held at the Manhattan hotel, Oakland, Tuesday night, according to an announcement made this morning by Frank J. Getty, president. Over 100 high school and elementary teachers are expected to be present. A business meeting will be held following the supper when problems of the schools will be discussed. James E. Spitznagel, Cumberland, is scheduled to be one of the speakers.

The Rev. M. B. Miller has returned from Greenwood, Del., where he attended a Mennonite communion service. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter.

Vernon Staggers, principal of Piedmont high school, and Miss Irene Johnson and Miss Katherine Staggers, who were in the city last night, will leave for Washington, D. C., tomorrow morning. They will be accompanied by their families.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Carder and family, Abodeville, W. Va., are visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kahl, Dover, Del., are visiting Mrs. Kahl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Patton.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gero, Louisville, O., and Mrs. Cecil Woodward and son, Hagnolia, O., have returned to their home after a short visit here with relatives. They were accompanied on their return by their aged father, M. K. Ryan, who expects to make his home with them in the future.

After spending several weeks at Marathon, N. Y., with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David Messersmith, and her son, Dewey Wiley, Mrs. Lydia Wiley has returned to her home here.

Louis Will Defend His Title December 16

Fights Al McCoy, New England and Canadian Champ

Ken Overlin and Steve Belloise Are Rematched for Dec. 13

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—Joe Louis will defend his world's heavyweight championship against Al McCoy, New England and Canadian titleholder, at the Boston Garden Dec. 16. It was announced today by promoter Mike Jacobs. Jacobs will release Louis from his contract for this 15-round bout, which will be promoted by Rip Valenti.

The fight will be Boston's first heavyweight championship.

Louis' last title defense was on June 21, when he knocked out Arturo Godoy of Chile in the eighth round.

Middleweight Champion Ken Overlin of Washington, D. C. and Young Steve Belloise of New York were matched today for a 15-round return title bout at Madison Square Garden Friday, Dec. 13. Overlin won a close decision last Friday after being knocked down in the sixth round.

Saints Seniors Knot Roxy for Lead in City Pin League

The rampaging SS Peter and Paul Seniors, with Paul Cioni showing the way with 198-516, won three games from Silver Lanes on the Saints path this week and tied Roxy, which dropped a pair to the Diamond on the winners' lanes, for first place in the City Pins League.

The Club Seniors retained possession of third place by besting the American Brewers 2-1 at the Roxy while in the other match, the Club Seniors took care of the SS Peter and Paul Juniors 2-1 at the Club.

Leading the Diamonds was Roy Ammons with 191-510 while the Roxy crew was paced by Aldridge with 468. The Silver Lanes, who topped only 1,874 strikes, were sparked by McGreevy's 475.

The American Brewers had 2,215 pins to the Club Juniors' 2,169 but lost the third by eight strikes and the first by 14. Albert "Bunny" Baum and Oscar Leasure led the Brewers with 492 and 490, respectively, while Tommy Hopwood was high for the Club Juniors with 219-327.

Larry Simmons had 463 for the SS Peter and Paul Juniors while "Pie" Conley sparked the Club Seniors with 201-493. The only other game over 200 was rolled by Leasure of the Brewers, 201.

THOSE STANFORD INDIANS, LEADERS IN THE PACIFIC COAST RACE

Coaches To Join In Huddle and Call Signals

Coach Ossie Doenges of Oklahoma City U. Originates the Idea

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 6 (AP)—Coach Ossie Doenges is about to go down in gridiron annals as the originator of twelve-man—there's the coach in the huddle—football. Yes, come Saturday at San Antonio, Tex., Coach Doenges of the Oklahoma City University Goldbugs and Coach Moe Simms of St. Mary's colorful Rattlers will hop from the bench and call signals.

You might know Old Moe would be in for something like that. Moe would rather get some honest free advertising for his football team than win a game—well almost—any day.

"Sure, we'll do it," belloved Moe from the other end of the telephone. It sounds like a swell stunt.

Doenges will admit that all this rumormongering about coaches wiggling signals from the bench gave him the idea. But after all, when eleven men can't win a game all season, why maybe an extra might help.

Earlier this season, Doenges said he had a perfectly good football team—the Goldbugs had only lost two or three games at the time—but they always called the right plays at the wrong time.

Still, the rules were pretty strict about the coaches getting off the bench. But why wouldn't it be all right to get the other coach to agree?

"Well step into the huddle, step back out after the boys get the signal, and we won't be eligible for passes, or even fumbles," Ossie explained.

St. Mary's has won six games so far and a scoresheet the would look like a thumping victory to Ossie.

Greene-Lee Team Holds Gulf Lead

Greene & Lee Station pinner grabbed a five-game margin in Gulf Service Station League rolling at the Diamond this week by defeating Buik Plant 2-1, while Baltimore & Park remained in second place despite a 2-1 loss to the Market & Mechanic Street outfit.

Team leaders were New Zembower, Greene & Lee 170-416; Ralph Hendrickson, Buik Plant 140-396; Tender Mark & Mechanic 142-369; and Lowery Park & Baltimore, 161-414. The scores:

The Spotlight by GRANTLAND RICE

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

Three Hot Spots

There are three unusually hot spots on football's menu for Saturday that must be listed as standouts. The reason is that all three are important contests along the line of conference championships. And all bring in three of the hardest playing conference teams we have in this broad, white-chalked land.

In order they are—
1. Minnesota and Michigan at Minneapolis, for the Western Conference or the Big Nine.
2. Stanford and Washington at Palo Alto for a big lead in the Rose Bowl march along the Pacific Coast.
3. Texas A. and M. and Southern Methodist at Dallas for the annual wild scramble in the hustling Southwest.

You can understand the flame of interest each of these games brings to three of football's leading terrains. No wonder this big sweep of football territory is keyed up well beyond the normal, which is dizzy enough.

Unusual Factors

So far only one of these six teams has been beaten and another tied. Minnesota has swept through the hardest schedule of the year unbeaten—Washington, Nebraska, Ohio State, Iowa and Northwestern.

Michigan has moved by California, Michigan State, Harvard, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

Stanford has beaten San Francisco, Oregon, Santa Clara, Washington State and U. S. C. and U. C. L. A.

Washington, beaten only by Minnesota 19 to 14, has whipped Idaho, Oregon State and California.

Unbeaten Texas A. and M. with Kimbrough, Thomason, Robnett and others has stepped through Texas A. and I., Tulsa, U. C. L. A., T. C. U., Baylor and Arkansas.

Southern Methodist has beaten U. C. L. A., North Texas Teachers, Auburn and Texas, with a Pittsburgh draw.

So the six teams involved in three of our main conference championships have won 30 games, lost one and tied one. And this includes hard interconference games with such strong outside opponents as Washington, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh and U. C. L. A.

This record proves the outstanding quality of all six teams which may easily decide the fate and the resting spots of three major crowns.

Conference Titles

Among these six contenders for three major penthouses, Minnesota has turned in or turned out the best job.

The Gophers have beaten three of the country's finest teams—unbeaten by anyone else—in Washington, Nebraska and Northwestern. They have had a much rougher trail to face than even Michigan has known, and Michigan drew an off Saturday in preparation for this major test.

But Michigan still has Tommy Harmon, Minnesota has Frank and Smith, two brilliant backs, but neither so far has been quite a Harmon.

Michigan has yet to face a team of Minnesota's caliber. Minnesota has already beaten three teams on a par with Michigan in playing strength—I mean Washington, Nebraska and Northwestern.

Just how much the Minnesota schedule has removed from those Stalwart Gopher systems is another guess. This Midwest encounter will undoubtedly be one of the big games of 1940, whatever happens.

The Southwest

Earlier in the season Matty Bell, the Southern Methodist coach, who told me that as good as Texas A. and M. was he did not believe Homer Norton's team could wade through the year unmarked.

This may be the test game. For Southern Methodist has been moving along since the pause at Pittsburgh in the wake of a motor accident.

This should be the big day for both the Aggies and the Methodists which stand as the best along the cottonwood trail, with Rice and Texas close behind.

Southern Methodist has Preston Johnston to throw against big John Kimbrough, who hasn't been quite the man-killer that many thought he would be.

Whichever team wins this game should take over one of the peak crowns of all conference titles.

Along the Pacific
The winner of the Washington-Stanford game is almost certain to reach the Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

Clark Shaughnessy has put over an amazing job at Stanford after last year's record.

But when the season opened Jimmy Phelan's Washington team was picked on top, despite a close defeat from Minnesota back in September.

Washington stock took a drop last week in the 7-6 California meeting, but the Huskies were pointing to Stanford and that $100,000 pot of Rose Bowl gold.

It will be the Stanford attack against the Washington defense—Standlee and Albert against McAdams and others in one of the big games of the day.

There are other major contests of keen interest. But none that count so much in the battle for conference crowns—North American Newspaper Alliance.

Seafords Gain in Liquor Dealers' Loop
Bill's Seafords defeated the pace setting Y. W. Kings 2-1 this week at the Diamond and today are only two games behind the No. 1 club in the South End Liquor Dealers' League.

The Divco Brothers copied three games from the Burkes to tie W. G. Conway pinner for third. The Conway crew bested the Virginia Tavern outfit 2-1.

Bill Crane of the Seafords had the best set of the day with 228-598. Other team leaders were Grabenstein, Conway, 206-516; Paul Tracy, Virginia Tavern, 201-497; Dick Blake, Divico, 175-477; Sam White, Burke, 152-418; and "Harp" Bland, Kings, 196-498.

Lynah Protests Criticism by L. W. St. John

Denies That Snavelly Directs Cornell Grid Team from the Bench

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)—James Lynah, director of athletics at Cornell, released today letters to Athletic Director L. W. St. John of Ohio State and to Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association, in which he denied emphatically St. John's charges that the Cornell football team was directed from the sidelines by Coach Carl Snavelly during its victory over Ohio State.

To St. John, Lynah wrote in part: "I cannot make myself believe you could personally have been responsible for these charges of signaling or, on your own initiative, could have possibly published them before you had complied with the amenities which I had supposed governed the relations between you and me as representatives of two great educational institutions."

In his letter to Bushnell Lynah said the St. John complaint "warrants the most scrupulous and open-minded inquiry in fairness to Coach Snavelly," and continued:

"It is not a coincidence that constantly during this game I had my field glasses focused on the teams and the field of play, for this is my practice at all home games."

"x x x I frequently focus my glasses on Coach Snavelly to see how he reacts to certain situations encountered by the team. It is a restless period for the coach and he changes his positions frequently, and whatever he is holding in his hand, a rolled-up program or sheets of paper (St. John charged Snavelly signaled with a "cylinder"), goes through many gyrations."

"Not once in the Ohio State game or in any other game have I detected any actions that could be construed as signaling from the bench by Coach Snavelly. x x x"

"I have been unable to secure any information that, in my opinion, justifies or sustains the 'unreserved convictions' of Dr. St. John."

No records were broken. Captain Walsh led his crew with 469, Carlson had 390 for the Browns, Wilson and Reinhardt registered 380 each for the Holmes outfit and Skiles topped the Pearsons with 451. No records were broken.

Washington Will Play Stanford On Saturday

Winner of Game Expected To Get Bid as Rose Bowl Entry

SEATTLE, Nov. 6 (AP)—The University of Washington Huskies, pre-season Rose Bowl favorites of the Pacific Coast sports writers, entrained for Palo Alto, Calif., and Saturday's Stanford football game today, talking about everything but the Rose Bowl.

The Pasadena classic was a taboo subject as the grim Huskies departed for the tussle everybody figures will decide the West Coast's Bowl representative.

"Never mind the Rose Bowl," snapped Coach Jimmy Phelan. "We're playing Saturday in the Stanford stadium and nowhere else."

The upstart Stanfords, winner of six straight games, four of them Pacific Coast Conference tilts, have become the toast of the coast with their daring and intricate play and probably will be established as favorites over Washington.

Phelan, master at "devising defenses, said his main defense would be an offense which he hopes will outscore the Cardinals.

"Nuts on a defense for Clark Shaughnessy's T formation," he said. "We're going to try to score early and often and let the defense take care of itself. We're not going down there to stop Stanford. Stanford will have to stop us."

Standlee Pushes Kimbrough for All-America

Stanford Star Is One of Country's Best Fullbacks

Standlee Has Been Major Factor in Stunning Rise of Coast Team

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—John Alex Kimbrough's bid for an All-America football berth for the second year in succession is running into unexpectedly serious opposition, most particularly from Stanford's great fullback, Norman Standlee.

Pullbacks are extraordinarily plentiful this season but Standlee and Kimbrough certainly rate at or close to the top on anybody's list.

Although not quite as spectacular as he was a year ago, Kimbrough once more is the pace-setter for the Texas Aggies, currently undefeated and heading in the general direction of another unbeaten season and another Southwest Conference title.

Despite massed defenses, Jarring John is up to his old line-smashing tricks, catching passes, serving as an effective blocker when someone else is carrying the ball, playing brilliantly on defense and generally proving a scourge to the opposition.

Standlee, by the same token, has been a major factor in Stanford's stunning rise. Almost as big as Kimbrough at 212 and extremely fast, he has been a consistent ground-gainer all season as well as one of the best kickers in the Far West.

Against U. C. L. A. last week, Standlee played fifty-six minutes, picked up 136 yards in eighteen rushes, passed well and booted for an average of thirty-eight yards. A "turnaway box car," one critic called him.

Blase Horrell, U. C. L. A. coach, gave Standlee the edge over Kimbrough on the basis of their play against his team. The comparison, however, may not be entirely fair, since Kimbrough spent some time in a hospital the week of the Texas Aggies-U. C. L. A. game, made the trip to Los Angeles by air and wound up playing sixty minutes against the tough Bruins.

Captain Joe Conway's team retained first place in Division "A" of the Elks' Bowling League this week by scoring a 2-1 victory over Captain Eddie Martz's outfit, but pin-blasting honors went to Captain "Doc" Rozum's pinmen who posted new game and set marks in taking two of three games from Captain Jack Treiber's aggregation to gain a tie for second place.

John Mosner was the scoring star of the Rozum victory with 210-510, and got his big game count in the third clash to pace the winners to a record total of 1,387. The Rozum team's set score of 3,585 also went into the books as tops for the season. Rozum pinmen held the former marks of 1,251 and 3,534.

Another new record was registered when George Brobeck, rolling for the Conway crew, hit 232 in the third game against the Martzen. Martz held the former mark of 217. Brobeck also had the high set count of the match with 510. The scores:

Carliss and Mellace In Scoring Tie

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 6—Johnny Carliss lost undisputed possession of the scoring lead of this year's West Virginia University eleven when he pitched that first touchdown pass to Bob McElwee in last Saturday's game with Washington and Lee. This gave Mellace twenty-four points for the season, the same as Carliss.

Kenny Fryer, sophomore fullback, moved into a tie with Glennis Ellis for the runner-up spot when he got West Virginia's second touchdown against the Generals. Fryer and Ellis have twelve points apiece. Bob White, another fullback, is third with one touchdown and four extra points for a total of ten. Four players show six points each: namely Don McCann, Dick McEl-

Sewell Actually Desires Job of Indians' Manager

Released by North American Newspaper Alliance

By JOHN LARDNER
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The situation in Cleveland continues to baffle the experts. The Cleveland baseball club had 405,896 managers this past season, by official count, including common citizens, newspaper men, and the ball players themselves. And now the club is looking for still another.

That would make 405,897 managers in all, not counting a certain number of babies who will be born in Cleveland before the opening of the next season and automatically take their places on the board of strategy.

They say the average infant begins second-guessing the Indians at the age of two months, though cases have been known of prodigies who took over their share of the management at one month and were criticizing the pitching selections long before the first fan broke through their tiny gums.

Having no way of estimating the number of unborn managers who will be handling the Indians by Next May, we will use last year's total as a working figure.

Managers Have Rough Going

There is a certain reluctance on the part of all this vast array of tacticians and strategists to become the official manager of the club, though he is the only one who draws pay for his work. Drawing pay is all right, if you care for that sort of thing, but the official manager is inevitably thrown out of Cleveland on his ear sooner or later—mostly sooner—and cannot manage the Indians any more except at a distance.

Nobody in Cleveland wants to spend his old age like that, with no Indians to manage.

Sentence is usually passed on some innocent bystander from out of town, like Bucky Harris, of Washington. They almost had Bucky nailed, but a reprieve arrived this week and he will not serve his term as expected. Good behavior and the prayers of his relatives persuaded the governor to commute Mr. Harris's sentence to another year in Washington, where the job practically amounts to a game of solitaire, with only a few hundred assistant managers.

When Harris was pardoned, James Luther Sewell, known to the trade as Luke, moved up to the head of the line. Sewell's is a strange case. He actually wants the job. No man knows more about the conditions of a Cleveland manager's life than Mr. Sewell, for he has studied this sordid spectacle at first-hand, from close up, in the role of coach. The sufferings of Oscar Vitt, the recent incumbent, were perfectly familiar to Mr. Sewell, but instead of escaping over the wall with Vitt last month, when he knew the finger might be on him, Sewell chose to remain behind.

The Players Like Him
The boys are beginning to suspect that Luke has gone stir-crazy. Of course, Mr. Sewell may know he is doing. Acquainted with the somewhat unusual dispositions, to put it mildly, of the men he would have to manage, and with the old Cleveland tradition which makes every citizen a manager without portfolio, Luther may have the stuff to cope with it all.

Almost all the players like him. He is patient, smooth-tempered, and a shrewd hand with pitchers. Skipping over the matter of temperament, the team has what it takes to win the American League pennant which means that Sewell, by stepping in now, might conceivably fall heir to the first Cleveland flag-winner since Tristram Speaker's Indians of 1920.

But he might also fall heir to the country's foremost headache, by weight and volume. They tell me that Mr. Vitt, after getting across the border to California and safety, dove into a barrel of aspirin and did not come up for a week.

It won't be long now before the Cleveland ownership announces officially that it has increased its total of managers to 405,897, one over today's closing figure. The new man, whoever he is, will then enjoy some four months of comparative bliss.

They can't second-guess him till he makes his first guess.

wee, Howard Lewellen, and Bill Gardner.

Charley Seabright brings up the rear of the scoring realm with five points from extra point attempts. Altogether, West Virginia has tallied 111 points for six games thus far this fall. The Mountaineers meet Cincinnati here Saturday.

Mars pin busters took over the lead in the SS. Peter & Paul Ladies' League race this week on the Saint alleys by taking a pair from the Comets with whom they were deadlocked for the top spot last week. The Starlets and Mercury went into a tie for third place when the latter team whitewashed the Starlets, and the Shooting Stars gave up their spot at the bottom of the list by whipping the Moonbeams in the loop's other matches.

Miss Elva Rice of the Shooting Stars hung up a new set record, dumping 413 mables to better Betty Schlinger's mark by two sticks. Other leading pin poppers were F. Ritter, Moonbeams, 316; Sarah Cioni, Starlets, 295; Florence Schlot, Mercury, 331; M. Wann, Comets, 333; and Betty Schlinger, Mars, 336.

Cold Spring Takes Rifle League Match

Luke, Nov. 6.—Cold Spring gunners of Luke, led by A. Hoffa's 285, piled up 1,388 points to win the second of a series of winter shoots in the Allegheny Rifle League. The match was staged here.

Kelly-Springfield was second with 1,348. Frostrub third with 1,282 and Celanese last with 1,083. P. Nycum had 263 for the Kelly, H. Morgan 270 for Frostrub and N. Hinkle, C. Flanagan and J. McCusker each 280 for the Celanese.

Four members of the Cold Spring team had perfect 100's in prone position. Nycum and McCusker had possible 50's in the sitting position and Billings of the Kelly a possible 50 in the kneeling position.

The league will compete in the National Gallery League championships conducted by the National Rifle Association and also the William Randolph Hearst Citizen's Marksmanship competition conducted by The Baltimore News-Post.

Dates for other matches in the winter series are November 15, November 29, December 20, January 10, January 24, February 7, February 21, March 7 and March 21. The scores:

Mountaineers Ready To Play Better Football

Kern Seems Pleased with Showing of Team against W. & L.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 6.—November finds Bill Kern's West Virginia Mountaineers seemingly ready to play some fairly decent football.

Last Saturday at Charleston, in their first game of the month, the Mountaineers poked a 12-7 defeat at Washington and Lee. The close score was by no means indicative of the difference between the two teams. The Mountaineers rolled up nearly 250 yards from their rushing plays and looked to be at least four or five touchdowns the better team. They had two touchdowns called back.

Kern seemed pleased with the team's showing, except for the number of touchdowns scored. With a little heads up ball he thought the team should have pushed across several more touchdowns.

One of the most encouraging things about the W. & L. game was West Virginia's failure to fumble. The Mountaineers didn't fumble a single time against the Generals, whereas in the five previous games they had fumbled 25 times, many of which were extremely costly.

Without fumbling the ball away, the Mountaineers showed plainly that they can put on sustained drives for touchdowns. They took the opening kickoff against W. & L. and with steady jabs at the line, coupled with an end sweep and a short pass down near the goal line, moved 76 yards in 15 plays for a touchdown. For their second touchdown, the Mountaineers drove from midfield to score in 16 plays.

In previous games, fumbles had halted many a West Virginia drive that seemed headed for pay dirt. Another encouraging about the game was the play of the sophomores as a separate unit. To use a football expression, it appeared that they were beginning to come in this game, and the consensus of experts was that they outshone West Virginia's starting team, composed of seniors and juniors.

Finally, the Mountaineers hit harder in this game than at any time this year, a point the members of the General team quite readily will admit.

So, this week Kern is pointing for an important clash with a strong University of Cincinnati team here Saturday, with hopes that his boys will hang up Victory No. 4. The team has beaten Westminster 47-0, Wesleyan 32-0, W. & L. 12-7, and lost to Fordham 20-7, Penn State 17-13, and George Washington 19-0.

Washington Players Share Scoring Lead

Chicago, Nov. 6 (AP)—Jimmy Johnston, Washington back, has climbed into a first place tie with his teammate, Dick Todd, for the individual scoring lead of the National Football League.

Johnston caught two touchdowns passes and Todd scored one touchdown against Pittsburgh leaving the two stars with 42 points apiece.

Don Hutson, Green Bay end, moved into third place with 38 points, two more than Ward Cuff, New York halfback. The leaders:

Player	Team	Points
Jimmy Johnston	Washington	42
Dick Todd	Pittsburgh	42
Don Hutson	Green Bay	38
Ward Cuff	New York	38
Masterman	End Wash.	31
Drake	Back Cleveland	25
Mullen	End G. Bay	20
Looney	End Phila.	20
J. Hall	Back Chi. Cards	20

Roosevelt Wins Allegany County By 3,646 Votes

Senator Radcliffe and Representative Byron Both Run Well

While politicians yesterday were attributing the Democratic victory in Allegany county to a number of factors, there seemed to be only one big reason for the sweeping New Deal triumph which took the entire nation by storm.

That reason is Roosevelt.

Nowhere was the Roosevelt victory more pronounced than in Allegany county where the Republican party has a 4,364 vote registration advantage.

This advantage was merely "on the books" in the county, Tuesday, for President Roosevelt, in leading his ticket, came out of the county with a majority of over 3,646 votes.

In all, a total vote of 33,256 was cast for the presidency in the county. Roosevelt received 18,451 votes and Willie 14,805 votes.

Staunch Republicans were still at a loss to explain this big Roosevelt margin yesterday. Most Republican leaders had predicted a Willie victory here and were hopeful that the Indiana candidate would carry the entire state.

The truth is that these already referred to statistical Republicans in Allegany county swung the county into the Democrat column Tuesday. The so-called rock-ribbed Republican stronghold at Lonaconing is a prime example. Willie carried Lonaconing by a scant majority of 112 votes.

In Cumberland, the president carried twenty-three of thirty-five polling places and finished up with a majority of 2,581 votes. The final score was Roosevelt 9,014, Willie 7,433.

In Frostburg, Roosevelt polled 1,407 votes, Willie 1,220. This represents a Roosevelt majority of 187 votes in what was formerly regarded as a Republican town.

Roosevelt Polls 18,451

The total vote Roosevelt garnered in Allegany county was 18,451. As a popular candidate, this puts him in a class with Associate Judge William A. Hunter, a Republican, who a few years ago received one of the biggest votes ever given an Allegany politician in recent years.

Commenting on the outcome of the election, Attorney General William C. Walsh, had this to say:

"In this county we unquestionably had the support of organized labor and many of its leaders and the outcome shows that given candidates who appeal to the rank and file of the voters the Democratic party can secure the ascendancy in Allegany county."

The unofficial returns in Allegany county gave:

Mrs. Mary Meek Is Fined $100 for Selling Liquor

Mrs. Mary Meek, 218 Paca street, was fined $100 yesterday in police court on a charge of selling liquor without a license and on election day.

Mrs. Meek was arrested Tuesday by Detective B. Frank Gaffney and Sgt. E. R. Johnston on a warrant issued to Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman. Witnesses named were Harvey Benner, rear of 931 Gay street, and William Hollingsworth, 102 Fayette street.

She was technically charged with violating City Ordinance 1404, Sections 1 and 3, Article G.

Personal Item

Miss Helen Lechler, of Cresap town, left yesterday for Lafayette, Ind., to attend the American Country Life Association meeting at Purdue university.

SMACK—Bob Hascall, native Vermonter and telegraph editor of The Cumberland News, bet on Willie and here's the payoff showing Hascall kissing the Democratic donkey and at the same time congratulating Earl Adams, major domo of the Democratic Cosmopolitan Club, winner of the bet. Adams would have had to pin the animal's ears back had Willie won. Bet was paid at noon yesterday at the corner of Baltimore and Mechanic streets.

Democrats Carry Largest Towns in Allegany

Lonaconing Only One of Larger Places Captured by Republicans

Unofficial returns from the thirty-five precincts in Cumberland show President Roosevelt carried the city by a majority of 1,581 votes, 9,014 to 7,433; United States Senator George L. Radcliffe led the Democratic ticket in Cumberland by polling 9,253 votes, 241 more than the president. His opponent Harry W. Nice received 6,142.

Representative William D. Byron of the Sixth district, won out in Cumberland by a majority of 1,550 votes in his fight with Walter Johnson, former big league baseball pitcher with the Washington Senators, 8,474 to 6,924 votes.

F. D. R. Wins Frostburg
Roosevelt carried Frostburg by 187 votes, 1,407 to 1,220. But Senator Radcliffe ran into a Nice stronghold there and lost out by 249 votes, 1,390 to 1,141. The Byron and Johnson race was nip and tuck, 1,248 to 1,299, with the "Big Train" getting a slim majority of fifty-one votes. Frostburg is generally regarded as a Republican area.

In rock-ribbed Republican Lonaconing, the Republican presidential candidate, Wendell Willie, received a majority of 112 votes over Roosevelt, 1,032 to 920, although the president did carry two of the four precincts. Former Governor Harry W. Nice ran better than Willie in Coney, receiving 1,149 votes, or 117 more than Willie. Radcliffe pulled only 730 votes there and Johnson won over Byron 1,101 to 803.

In Westernport the picture changed completely from that in Coney. President Roosevelt polled almost two to one over Willie. Roosevelt had 1,126 and Willie 666. The same held true for the other Democratic candidates. Radcliffe led Nice 1,099 to 603 and Byron beat Johnson 1,043 to 680.

Wendell Willie carried the three small towns in the eastern part of the county, namely Orleans, Oldtown and Flintstone. The other GOP candidates also led their opponents.

Willie Carries Barton
Luke Kent Democratic by substantial majorities but Barton gave the Republicans majorities for all three candidates.

Eckhart, Vale Summit and Ocean all went for Roosevelt by big margins. The other Democratic candidates also carried these sections comfortably.

Ellerslie went Republican but Corriganville gave the Democrats majorities.

Zihlman and Eckhart gave Roosevelt a bigger percentage of their vote than any other districts in the county. In Zihlman it was 226 to 61 and 508 to 184 in Eckhart.

Twenty Applications for Pilot Training Course Are Received

Twenty applications for the Civilian Pilot Training course to be sponsored here have been received by the chamber of commerce.

Applications will be received by the chamber until Thursday noon, Nov. 14. H. W. Smith, secretary, said yesterday.

Smith said that a number of applications have also been received from West Virginia young men. These applications can not be accepted since the regulations governing the course require that all applicants live in the state of Maryland.

Townsend Club Supper

Townsend Club, No. 2, will hold a chicken supper in Grace community hall, tomorrow, from 5 to 8 p. m.

Radcliffe Heads Maryland Ticket By 188,338 Votes

Complete Returns Give Analysts Much To Discuss in Future

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6 (AP)—The election in Maryland produced enough odd angles to keep the vote analysts busy for days.

Certain it was that President Roosevelt swept the state in yesterday's voting and carried the entire Democratic ticket with him, despite a couple of close squeaks in the first and sixth Congressional districts.

It was equally certain that, however formidable his 116,000-vote majority appeared, the president did not head the ticket.

With only half a dozen polling places unreported, Mr. Roosevelt polled 383,540 votes to 267,253 for Wendell L. Willkie. The total vote yesterday represented an increase of nearly 30,000 over the balloting in the 1936 Roosevelt-Landon election.

Willkie Cuts Majority

Willkie trimmed the Roosevelt 1936 majority down by nearly 42,000. Then, too, there were some 6,000 fewer Democrats voting in the 1940 election, despite a big jump in the party's registration.

Willkie, on the contrary, polled nearly 36,000 more votes than Landon four years ago.

Heading the victorious Democratic ticket was U. S. Senator George L. Radcliffe, who won reelection over former Gov. Harry W. Nice, his Republican opponent, by 391,684 to 203,346—a majority of 188,338 which left the Roosevelt margin in the shade.

A comparison of the presidential and senatorial returns in Maryland indicated clearly that about 64,000 voters refused to vote for either Senatorial candidate, while some 8,000, who went along with Willkie turned Nice down in favor of Radcliffe.

In Somerset county, where the Democratic registration had a 7 to 5 advantage over the Republicans, unofficial returns showed Roosevelt well out in front but gave the county to Nice by a bare eleven votes.

Harford county, home territory of U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings, gave a majority to Willkie but voted heavily for Radcliffe.

Calvert Goes Democratic

Calvert county, normally a good Republican bet, went down the line for Roosevelt and Radcliffe. Allegany county, where Republicans outnumber Democrats on the books by about 5,000, plumped for Roosevelt and Radcliffe by a considerable margin.

Willkie made a surprising showing in heavily Democratic Baltimore county, polling 25,535 to 29,845 for Roosevelt. Senator Radcliffe, on the other hand, made a runaway race there, defeating Nice by more than 21,000. Nice polled 15,492 votes out of a total of 16,000 Republican registration there.

Probably the most surprising result in the election was Rep. David J. Ward's successful reelection fight in the first district. For weeks, Republican leaders had regarded the Eastern Shore counties as "in the bag" for Republican Robert F. Duer.

After a shaky start, Ward picked up the late tabulations, finally carrying seven of the nine counties for a comfortable majority of more than 5,000.

Rep. William D. Byron, Democrat, and Republican Walter Johnson, former big league ball player, made a see-saw race in the Sixth district until late returns from Washington and Allegany counties turned the tide swiftly to Byron by some 8,000 majority.

Rep. William P. Cole in the second district, Rep. Thomas D. Alessandro in the third, John A. Meyer in the fourth, and Rep. Lansdale G. Sasser in the fifth were never seriously troubled by their Republican opponents.

Maryland Educator Speaks on Britain

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 6 (AP)—Arthur Silver, professor of English history at the University of Maryland, declared today that "if Britain would be successful, she must unite behind her all lovers of human liberty throughout the world, much as France in 1792 rallied Europe in the cause of equality."

"She must plan for a new Europe to take the place of the old, but in order to win the confidence of all, she must make herself over," said Professor Silver in the fourth of the history department's lecture series. "That can more easily be done by such a government as England has today with its large element of labor members—the English Socialists—who have the confidence of all England."

The speaker said a modern war can be financed "only by a large sacrifice of all the people." The Chamberlain government failed in this respect, he said, because "it was not sure enough of national support to tell the nation to pull in its belt."

"Even the present government has not yet resorted to the heroic measures felt by many to be necessary, such as compulsory savings, accompanied by family allowance and complete rationing to conserve the nation's resources in shipping, supplies and 'exchange.' Professor Silver said. "But there are indications that really far-reaching measures are not far off."
